Tempers Flare At Novato City Council Meeting

Ruegg Storms Out In Midst Of Angry Civic Center Debate

By THERON A. NEWELL

Tempers flared so hotly last night at the Novato City Council meeting that Councilman Fred F. Ruegg left twice, once for 90 minutes and later accompanying Councilman Dorothy Young, breaking up the meeting at midnight. (Another Novato City Council story, page 7.)

The disrupting centered on the volatile question of locating a future civic center, but the bitterness carried over into discussion of a matter of importance to all of Marin: whether to join in a common application for federal funds.

No definitive action was taken by the Novato council on the agreement which requires the approval of every city in Marin except Belvedere and Ross. A negative vote in Novato or any other city would kill the project involving more than $8 million in grants over six years.

(The San Anselmo City Council last night approved the agreement. Others have yet to act.)

The first flare-up last night in Novato came when the council was discussing whether or not to put location of the proposed civic center to a vote of the people. Ruegg moved and Mrs. Young seconded the motion to give voters a chance to approve the proposed site east of the present city hall or call for another site.

Councilman Gail Wilhelm then moved that Ruegg's motion be tabled, and was seconded by David Milano.

Mayor David Price Jones then said he wanted to read a resolution he intended to introduce. Ruegg objected stating that the other two motions should be voted on first, and the battle of parliamentary procedure was on.

Jones refused and a motion to declare Jones out of order was defeated 3-2 with Ruegg and Young on the losing side.

Jones then declared Ruegg out of order for insisting on a vote.

"You go your own elite way, running the meeting according to your own rules," Ruegg said, adding "It's no use of me attending such a meeting."

With that he grabbed his agenda materials and stalked out to the applause of approximately 30 persons who find him a champion in their fight to keep the city from condemning their homes for the civic center.

TRUCK TOPPLES, BLOCKS ROAD

Precariously perched on a sharp bend on Live Oak Drive, a Tamalpais Community Services District garbage truck sits, helpless, awaiting rescue and tow. Residents said the truck driver cut the turn too close while making his morning rounds at about 7:30 a.m. today. The truck blocked the narrow road all morning, and cars trying to pass (like the Volkswagen at right) were forced to back down the winding road to avoid the hulk. Tow truck operators said they expected to have the truck moved by midafternoon.

Two More Eyed For Wornum Seat

Two more candidates have emerged as contenders for appointment to the Marin County Board of Supervisors to fill the vacancy left by Michael Wornum.

They are Thomas S. Price, vice mayor of Belvedere, and Tally P. Mastrangelo of Sausalito, financial and management consultant who ran unsuccessfully in November for the state board of equalization.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who will appoint a successor to Wornum when he takes his seat in the Assembly, is known to look with favor on Price's candidacy. Price was appointed by the governor to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Mastrangelo has the backing of the county Republican Central Committee. Ignoring the wishes of Marin's Republican legislators, the central committee last night voted to endorse him for the supervisors' post.

"The committee thought Mastrangelo was the most capable person for the job," said Chairman Bert D. Inman. "The members thought his tremendous business experience" would be useful on the county board. The committee recommendation is being forwarded to Reagan.

Price generally had been considered the leading candidate for the appointment, but early this month decided he could not accept it because of business and personal obligations. He resisted pleas by many influential Republicans, but changed his mind after talking with the governor Friday at lunch in San Francisco.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael and outgoing Assemblyman William T. Bagley, favor other persons for Wornum's seat. Behr supports the appointment of Dean N. Meyer, a field, is a graduate of the University of Santa Clara and the Stanford Law School.

Mastrangelo, who lost the board of equalization race to William M. Bennett of Kent-

He is vice chairman of the Marin Republican Central Committee and in 1968 was active in the Rockefeller for President Committee in Marin. He also ran unsuccessfully for the Marin Municipal Water District board that year.

Price, 47, has served on the city council for almost 11 years, five of them as mayor. He also was a trustee of Reed School District from 1967 to 1971.

An 18-year resident of Marin, Price lives at 7 West Shore Road. He and his wife, Jeanne, have two children. Price is president of United Building Products of San Francisco.

Price has been on the bay commission for five years, acquiring a record as a conservationist — a prime issue in Southern Marin's Third Supervisorial District. Also in the district are Tiburon, Strawberry, Mill Valley, Tamalpais Valley, Marin City and Sausalito.

San Rafael School Board Plans Tax Referendum Next March

With its schools starving for funds because of the SB 90 tax reform law, the San Rafael Board of Education last night threw itself on the mercy of district voters, asking for a revenue increase on the March 4, 1975 ballot. (Another board of education story, page 3)

Rising inflationary costs coupled with SB 90's tightening pursestrings mean that the elementary school district will face an $899,718 deficit for 1975-76, and the high school district an $823,948 deficit, Supt. Donald E. Leisey predicted.

If taxpayers turn down the proposed revenue increases, the results will be massive program cutbacks and staff firings, "and we're not crying, 'wolf,'" board members and citizen advisers agreed.

The board unanimously voted to ask taxpayers to permit spending to rise by $200 per pupil beyond limits set by SB 90 and the tax rate to rise accordingly.

The 1974-75 tax rate for the elementary district is $3.041 per $100 assessed valuation; if the voters turn down the spending proposal, the rate will drop 35.9 cents to $2.682, Leisey reported. In the high school district the present rate is $2.045; it could rise 7.6 cents under the present SB 90 limits to $2.121 per $100, he said.

If the $200-per-pupil hike in the limit on spending is approved, the elementary district tax rate next year would rise 11.2 cents to $3.153 per $100 assessed valuation, and the high school district rate would rise 41.7 cents to $2.462, according to a table supplied by Leisey.

Supervisors End Creek Holdout

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County supervisors ended their three-week holdout and voted unanimously yesterday to proceed with the final stage of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project. (Other supervisors stories, page 5.)

The board's swift action came on the heels of an opinion from County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney that supervisors could be held personally liable for up to $12 million in damages if they continued to block the project.

Earlier this month, supervisors agreed to delay the fourth and final phase while solutions other than concreting the picturesque creek were studied.

That action was spearheaded by supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni and Gary T. Giacomini and threatened to block completion of the project until 1977.

With yesterday's action, the "channelization" of the creek between the Ross Post office and Winship Park Bridge is

Highlands Report Probe Is Ordered

Marin County supervisors called yesterday for a probe of proposals that a redevelopment housing project in Marin City "be as isolated as possible" from the predominantly black community.

The board's move was in reaction to a report in Saturday's Independent-Journal that two consultant studies recommend the controversial Richardson Highlands project isolate itself from the rest of Marin City.

Supervisors, at the urging of several members of the audience, asked the county redevelopment agency to investigate the matter and report back.

The redevelopment agency sold the project's 30-acre site to Mid-City Developers for construction of 379 "market rate" apartments and townhouses.

The project is currently tied up in federal court by several Marin City residents who claim it does not provide enough low-cost and moderate-cost units.

The two reports say the project will meet "market resistance" unless it is made to appear separate from the rest of Marin City.

The consultants suggested extensive landscaping and a "grand entrance" to buffer the project against the "ethnic nature of the immediate area."

Nesbit Crutchfield, a Marin City resident, told supervisors that Marin City residents are disturbed by this "overt segregation to increase the marketability of the land," and demanded an investigation.

Board Chairman Michael Wornum agreed, saying "I was disturbed by the report, too." Other supervisors agreed to ask the redevelopment agency to study the matter.

Government Offices, Stores Will Close For Thanksgiving

Government offices and most stores in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties will close tomorrow as families gather for their traditional Thanksgiving feast.

Most government offices will be closed on Friday also, giving employees a four-day holiday. All postoffices will close tomorrow, but be open on Friday. The Mill Valley city office will be the only one open.

Many churches in the area will have special Thanksgiving services tonight or tomorrow morning.

All schools will close tomorrow and Friday.

Stores and supermarkets will all be open on Friday for the beginning of the Christmas buying season.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual.

Sausalito, Petaluma and Mill Valley have declared tomorrow as a parking meter holiday, but the meters will operate as usual Friday. In San Rafael the parking meter holiday will apply both tomorrow and Friday.

Blinder Wins Drug Program Endorsement

Decriminalization Urged By San Anselmo Council

By PAUL CANE

Drug use should not be illegal, the San Anselmo City Council declared last night.

A council majority unexpectedly backed a resolution by Mayor Martin G. Blinder calling for decriminalization of drug use, increased rehabilitation of drug users, and a state regulation program to supply drugs to addicts inexpensively. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 3.)

That resolution — saying in effect that tough enforcement of drug laws just isn't the right way to deal with the drug abuse problem — will be sent to the California Legislature for consideration.

The vote in favor of the resolution was 3-1, with one abstention. Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro voted no, and Councilman John H. Colteaux abstained.

The resolution in itself does not change state laws against drug use in San Anselmo, nor will the council put any pressure on city police to stop enforcing drug laws in the city. Blinder told the Independent-Journal after the meeting. (The Berkeley City Council was struck down in court when it tried to do so several years ago.)

The purpose of the campaign for decriminalization, Blinder said, was to raise the consciousness of citizens so that they would realize the futility of tough enforcement of drug laws. "The long discussion of this issue has been beneficial and educational — for me, for people in the street, and yes, for policemen," he said.

Last night's action capped a 10-week effort by Blinder to gain support for the resolution from his colleagues. The issue has been discussed at three council meetings, in addition to an all-day drug seminar sponsored by the city Nov. 9.

Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson provided the unexpected vote that gave supporters of decriminalization the needed majority.

Top Woman Out As Ford Adviser

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today accepted the resignation of White House counselor Anne Armstrong, the administration's highest ranking woman who is leaving her $42,500 a year post for personal reasons.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen said that Mrs. Armstrong's resignation is effective Dec. 21 and that instead of appointing a successor the President hopes to reduce the size of the White House staff by reassigning her responsibilities to other assistants.

Mrs. Armstrong's resignation came amid reports from White House sources that the President is planning a large shake-up of his staff early next year — including at least three Cabinet changes.

In an exchange of letters, Ford told Mrs. Armstrong: "it was with the deepest regret that I learned that important family responsibilities have prompted your letter of resignation as a presidential counselor."

Fire Damages Novato Drive-In

A fire that apparently started in a storeroom caused about $10,000 damage to the Hi-Fi Drive In, 1000 Mirabella Avenue, last night, Novato firemen reported.

The fire was reported at 10:26 p.m. about two hours after the drive-in restaurant owned by Julian Hawawini was closed.

The cause of the fire, which resulted in smoke and heat damage throughout the building, is under investigation, firemen said.

lor ... You will be greatly missed at the White House."

Mrs. Armstrong said she was submitting her resignation "with the deepest of regret."

Aides also said that two Cabinet members who will depart early in the new year are Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan and Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton.

Delay Asked In Vote On Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., today proposed that a confirmation vote on the vice presidential nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller be delayed until the new Congress convenes in January.

Rep. Abzug told the House Judiciary Committee that Rockefeller was a "partner in the greatest agglomeration of private power in the history of the nation," and warned of that "private Rockefeller power in combination with great public power would be simply too much for a democracy to risk."

But support for Rockefeller came from another witness, Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., who urged Democrats on the committee to "lay aside partisan views in this critical hour, and confirm this seasoned, savvy, and able, although not perfect, public servant."

Of Rockefeller's "accusers," Rep. Chisholm asked, "Where in government today can we find, yes even among ourselves

British Police Preparing For Spate Of Irish Bombs

LONDON (UPI) — Firebombs exploded in London and Birmingham pubs during the night and police said today they expect more Irish Republican Army bombing reprisals once Parliament passes a law banning the organization in Britain.

Police said the mailbox bombs that wounded 20 persons in London after the law was proposed Monday were just a foretaste of things to come.

"We do not believe the protests against the new legislation are over by any means," a spokesman said.

The London and Birmingham firebombings caused no injuries. Police said they arrested four men in connection with the London blast, but that the Birmingham bombers escaped.

The latest surge in Irish violence in England opened Thursday when bombs exploded without warning in two Birmingham taverns, killing 19 persons and injuring 184 others.

The government reacted with a bill to outlaw the IRA. Parliament was expected to approve it later this week.

Legislators said passage, initially expected tomorrow could be delayed by attempts to tack on a law renewing the death sentence for bombers or terrorists.

Police called the reprisal mailbox bombs Monday a token operation and warned the public to expect worse.

Jackie Purchases Country Estate

SOMERVILLE, N.J. (UPI) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis has purchased a 10-acre estate in the fox-hunt country of New Jersey's Somerset County for $200,000.

The deed for the estate, located in Bernardsville, N.J., about 30 miles from New York City, was filed in the county clerk's office yesterday by an attorney for Mrs. Onassis.

Mrs. Onassis has rented an estate in nearby Peapack for more than six years.

Waldheim Feels Middle East Situation Has Improved Some

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL. U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim left Israel today, saying the Middle East situation is improved but still dangerous despite Syria's expected agreement to let U.N. peace-keeping troops remain on the Golan Heights.

Waldheim met with Israeli leaders three times in less than 24 hours and then left for Egypt, the last stop on his three-day, three-nation visit to the troubled region.

"My visit has given me the impression that the situation now is somewhat more relaxed than it was a week ago," Waldheim said at Ben Gurion International Airport outside Tel Aviv.

"But this shouldn't lead us to believe that the danger is over. The situation is still dangerous and every effort has to be made between now and the expiration of the mandate to achieve a political settlement because peace-keeping is not an end in itself."

The mandate allowing the 1,200 U.N. troops to police the cease-fire between Israel and Syria on the Golan Heights expires Saturday.

Israeli newspapers said today that Syrian troops blew up three abandoned Israeli outposts in the Golan Heights buffer zone Monday in violation of the military disengagement accord.

In Cairo, Premier Abdel Aziz Higazi said today Egypt's policy is to seek a peace settlement in the Middle East but also to prepare militarily for a possible new war with Israel. In Beirut, the Palestine Liberation Organization said it had arrested 26 persons suspected of being involved in this week's hijacking of a British Airways plane to Tunis and would try them publicly.

The Arab guerrilla group said mailboxes were sealed to prevent parcel bombs from being shoved inside them. Extra guards were assigned to patrol the city's train stations and guard government buildings.

In anticipation of the IRA being outlawed, more than 100 policemen last night swooped on a north London pub and arrested 20 men. After questioning all but one were released.

He said Syria will not commit itself to a further extension of the mandate beyond the next six months unless there is political progress. Syria has insisted on complete Israeli withdrawal from the Golan Heights.

Israel captured the heights in the 1967 Middle East war, and had said a Syrian refusal to extend the U.N. mandate would be considered a hostile act.

The law providing Reagan a tax break on his ranch is called the Williamson Act, passed a decade ago to preserve farm and other "open" land in the state.

The primary aim was to help small farmers plagued with mounting tax bills as their land values skyrocketed. It was hoped that by reducing their tax burden, farmers would not be tempted to sell to developers.

The assessor's office said Reagan's ranch spans two school districts. The land was under an agricultural preserve contract when Reagan bought it, and county documents indicate he routinely renewed it.

"We suggest that the council, in its report on these hearings, strongly recommend that the U.S. Department of Agriculture retroactively increase the minimum wages of sugar farm workers for the 1974 cultivation and harvest work by at least $1 an hour," he said.

"In that way, these poverty stricken workers may share a little in the bonanza of excess profits and government subsidies which the sugar corporations are amassing this year."

There were warnings of heavy unemployment in the sugar-using food industry and suggestions that international speculators were really to blame for the whole situation.

The hearings ended yesterday with pleas from labor unions actions such as the hijacking — carried out by an anti-PLO commando group — "reflect great harm on the Palestinian people and on our struggle."

Waldheim, meanwhile, said it was premature to say if and when the Geneva Middle East peace conference will be reconvened. He said its resumption depended on future developments.

Sugar Price Probe Fails To Solve The Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's first investigation of ballooning sugar prices is over, producing a stack of conflicting suggestions.

Albert Rees, who chaired the two-day hearing for President Ford's Council on Wage and Price Stability, said he hopes to have a report and recommendations for the administration in two to three weeks.

"It's been a very productive hearing," Rees said in an interview. "But it's a hell of a difficult problem. Almost every suggestion that's been made by someone has been opposed by someone else."

Suggestions ranged from subsidies for users to a crackdown on industry profits.

There were warnings of heavy unemployment in the sugar-using food industry and suggestions that international speculators were really to blame for the whole situation.

Reagan Ranch Taxes Cut By Ag Law

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan should save about $11,500 a year in property taxes on his new Santa Barbara County ranch by utilizing a law designed to save California farmland, according to assessment figures.

Based on land deed information and assessment values provided by the county yesterday, the retiring governor appears to be facing a tax bill of $1,100 a year, rather than $12,600, for the property.

The difference is because the half-million dollar ranch is under contract to the county as an "agricultural preserve."

This means Reagan has agreed not to develop the property in the immediate years ahead and, in return, is taxed only on the value of its agricultural potential, instead of its market value.

Located 25 miles northwest of Santa Barbara, the ranch sits atop a ridge of the Santa Ynez Mountains, providing scenic views of the Pacific coast on one side and the Santa Ynez Valley on the other.

But the assessor's office said it is an area too rugged for serious ranching and almost impossible to farm. Therefore, even with an adobe home on the property it was assessed — on the basis of agricultural value — at $47,300, far below market price.

A transfer deed on file with the county recorder's office shows at least $527,000 was involved in the purchase. The sale was negotiated by a three-man "Reagan Trust" and disclosed last week.

At the current tax rate in the region of $9.60 per $100 of assessed valuation, Reagan will be billed $1,135 on the $47,300 appraisal. If the land were appraised at the $527,000 in the transaction, Reagan would owe $12,648.

However, whether the $527,000 actually corresponds to the land's market value was not known. Reagan has declined to discuss publicly his personal financial matters.

The governor's office said the 63-year-old former actor and his wife, Nancy, plan to use the ranch as a weekend and vacation retreat, living the remainder of the time at their Pacific Palisades home.

The law providing Reagan a tax break on his ranch is called the Williamson Act, passed a decade ago to preserve farm and other "open" land in the state.

The primary aim was to help small farmers plagued with mounting tax bills as their land values skyrocketed. It was hoped that by reducing their tax burden, farmers would not be tempted to sell to developers.

The assessor's office said Reagan's ranch spans two school districts. The land was under an agricultural preserve contract when Reagan bought it, and county documents indicate he routinely renewed it.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Campaign Begins For Monarchy

ATHENS (UPI) — Supporters of deposed King Constantine, backed by an emotional appeal from the exiled ruler, launched a campaign today to re-establish the monarchy in Greece.

The main royalist organization, the Panhellenic Movement of Crowned Democracy, opened a series of campaign offices in Athens for next month's referendum on whether Greece should be a republic or a monarchy.

The king, 34, in a recorded statement broadcast last night, promised to "spend my life for the protection of our democratic institutions" if Greeks vote in the Dec. 8 referendum to re-establish the monarchy.

Constantine fled Greece in 1967 with Danish-born Queen Anne-Marie after failing in an attempt to overthrow a junta that seized power in a military coup earlier in the year.

TOKYO (UPI) — Railway workers, airline employees and mailmen walked off their jobs today, increasing pressure brought on by a magazine article charging he used political influence to amass a fortune during his 28-year political career and set up dummy companies to hide his wealth.

Liberal Democratic Secretary General Susumu Nakaiido was expected to complete his meetings with top party leaders today to pick a new prime minister.

No New Cancer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Doctors say no cancer penetrated beyond Margaretta (Happy) Rockefeller's right breast, removed Monday in her second mastectomy.

Prospects for her complete recovery were declared excellent. Mrs. Rockefeller was walking around her hospital room yesterday, eating solid food and visiting with her husband Nelson, the vice president-designate.

A hospital spokesman said she was expected to go home "toward the end of the week."

Ties Broken

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Chilean diplomats began packing for home today in response to Mexico's sudden decision to break diplomatic ties with the military junta in Santiago.

"The Mexican government has decided to put an end to its diplomatic relations with the present government of the Republic of Chile," the Foreign Office said last night in a brief announcement.

Mexico declined to explain the move, but diplomatic sources said the action was apparently triggered by Chile's refusal to release the imprisoned sister of the late Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Pioneer Speeds On

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI) — Pioneer 11, an unmanned spacecraft sailing through space at 24,000 miles an hour, safely crossed a turbulent region of space last night and set a course that will glide it under Jupiter's lethal radiation belts.

Scientists controlling the 560-pound vehicle at NASA's Ames Research Center expressed excitement at information which suggests that the 17-million-mile-long "bow shock" might not pulsate in and out from Jupiter as previously calculated.

Pioneer 11's course is now set to glide the craft underneath the gaseous planet's disc-shaped radiation belts, which are 40,000 times stronger than those of Earth. The tiny machine is now 3.7 million miles from Jupiter.

Pact Accepted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If striking coal miners approve a proposed contract finally okayed by their union leadership yesterday they could be back at work next week with a 64 percent increase in pay and benefits.

United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said the miners will vote next Monday, by secret ballot on the three-year pact and the results will be known within 24 hours, far less time than the 10 days to two weeks previously thought necessary.

"We're going to do everything we can to expedite" the complicated ratification procedure, Miller said.

Another Miss Utah

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Jill L. Smith, 19, who originally finished fourth in the Miss Utah contest, was named the winner yesterday. The original Miss Utah and the first two runners-up have been disqualified because they announced wedding plans.

Miss Smith, a Brigham Young University student, replaces Kathryn White who resigned so she could marry singer Wayne Osmond on Dec. 13.

Durkin Wins

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Democrat John Durkin today narrowly won election to the U.S. Senate by overcoming the 542 vote election night lead of Republican Rep. Louis Wyman.

Figures released after a 9-day count by New Hampshire's Secretary of State Robert Stark showed Durkin defeated Wyman by 10 votes out of more than 221,000 cast.

The recount figures showed Durkin beat Wyman 110,924 to 110,914.

Durkin's victory gave the Democrats 62 seats in the Senate compared to 38 for the Republicans, a change of four seats.

The narrow margin, coupled with the large number of contested ballots, appear to insure that the U.S. Senate will face a decision on which candidate to seat in January.

Take Positions

SAIGON (UPI) — Hundreds of riot police carrying rifles, shields and nightsticks took up positions in Saigon today on the eve of a mass anti-government march banned by authorities.

The government of President Nguyen Van Thieu announced a virtual 24-hour curfew over 150 blocks of downtown Saigon in an attempt to block tomorrow's protest.

Riot police wearing flak jackets patrolled the streets near two suburban Roman Catholic churches sponsoring the planned demonstration, the latest in a series of protests against the government.

Organizers predicted more than 10,000 persons would march from the churches to downtown Saigon to call for freedom of the press and to denounce government corruption.

Prime Minister Tran Thien Khiem turned down a request by the organizers for permission to hold a peaceful march and ordered police to man barricades.

City Guilty On Contempt Count

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — The City of Healdsburg has been found guilty of contempt of court for refusing to rehire six fired policemen and three police dispatchers.

The order by visiting Sierra County Superior Court Judge John F. Keane yesterday named the City Council, City Manager James Stanfield and City Attorney John Klein.

Keane, sitting in Sonoma County Superior Court, said he would withhold sanctions until Monday when he would receive evidence on whether the city employees were rehired. The original order that the nine be reinstated was issued by Judge John Moskowitz on Oct. 29.

City officials said they have refused to rehire the personnel because Moskowitz' ruling was illegal and their notice of appeal had stayed all action.

CANAL STREET ACCIDENT

San Rafael Police officer James Cunha surveys the crumpled residue of a car that swerved out of control on Canal Street in San Rafael and smashed into a utility pole. Driver Lisa Murphy, 16, of 313 Canal Street, was treated for facial cuts following the accident at 4:18 p.m. yesterday. A passenger, Stephen J. Blaine of 20 Lower Via Casitas, Greenbrae, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a fractured vertebrae and tailbone.

San Rafael Students Top Average

San Rafael second and third grade pupils and high school seniors all placed above state averages in reading, language, spelling and mathematics, staff officials told the San Rafael Board of Education last night. (Another board of education story, page 1.)

The California state testing program for 1973-74 showed the district's second graders in the 89th percentile among all districts in reading skill, and the third-graders in the 81st percentile.

Sixth graders, who were only in the 69th percentile in mathematics for 1972-73, jumped back up to the 85th percentile last year, the test results showed. They scored in the 84th percentile in reading, 80th percentile in language, and 89th percentile in spelling.

High school seniors, achieving the 94th percentile in math tests in 1972-73, slumped to the 88th percentile last year. It was the only field in which San Rafael students fell below state educators' predictions of their performances, based on socioeconomic conditions in Marin, class size and numerous other factors.

Board chairman Herman L. Childress noted, however, that the state reported that four San Rafael elementary schools fell below statewide norms in reading skills for second and third graders. "We'll have to fix that," he said.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

CIVIL RIGHTS — Received a report on percentages of minority students in district schools, and was told that the distribution is balanced between schools well enough to avoid any equalization attempt.

DISABILITY — Voted unanimously to change the employee disability insurance policy after learning that a program costing $54,000 last year would cost $115,000 next year.

PERSONNEL — Upheld the dismissal of two bus driver-mechanics whose driver's licenses have been revoked.

CAFETERIAS — Learned that both the high school and junior high cafeterias operated in the black during October, following approved increases in food prices.

ADVISER — Named Mrs. Cavan Holliday, Short School representative, to the citizens advisory committee.

GRANT — Voted to allocate $800 for a student work study program, to match $3,200 from a federal vocational program.

AUDIT — Accepted the 1973-74 auditors' report from Sleezer and Eckhoff, accountants of San Rafael, and hired the firm to do next year's audit.

RECORDS — Gave first reading to the board's regular second meeting in December, which would have been on Christmas Eve.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Dec. 10 at Terra Linda High School.

Holiday Concert Scheduled Dec. 8

More than 70 performers will participate in Indian Valley Colleges second annual holiday concert at 2 p.m. Dec. 8 at Novato High School Gymnasium.

The concert, including choral music and dance, will range from the traditional "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach to "Songs of Solomon," an original dance composition based upon the theme of love in the Old Testament.

The Madrigal Singers, who feature renaissance music, will perform under the direction of Joan Johnson, IVC music instructor.

Carol Ott of San Rafael, IVC dance instructor, has choreographed the Bach presentation and will direct the dance company.

There is no admission charge.

Exhibit Of Polish Art Is Underway

An exhibit of Polish art, sponsored by the Polish Arts and Cultural Foundation is now on display, and will be until Jan. 15, in the library of Dominican College, San Rafael.

Painting, weaving, toymaking, engraving, bread sculpture, decorated eggs, Christmas cards and decorations will be on display. The library is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. There is no admission charge.

Police, Teen-Agers Agree: Problem Is Communication

By LEW CODDINGTON

San Rafael police and Terra Linda teen-agers, meeting face-to-face under calmer conditions than prevailed in August, agreed last night their chief problem was lack of communication with each other.

The occasion was a San Rafael Police Department seminar on "police-community relations and the criminal justice system," held at Terra Linda High School.

Though it was not intended that way, conversation kept returning to the stormy night of Aug. 17, when club-swinging, Mace-spraying policemen broke up a teen-age party at 43 Skyview Terrace after being met with a hail of beer bottles and flying furniture.

In the aftermath of the party and other controversial incidents, police embarked on a public relations campaign including the seminar and ride-along program which will begin Dec. 4.

A 10-member panel representing a broad spectrum of San Rafael and Marin County officialdom began last night's discussion by raising a variety of points, but the crowd quickly focused attention on the August party. About 50 persons were there, half of them teen-agers who had attended the party.

"All an officer has to do is show himself," said one girl. "The kids know the party's over. They don't have to use force."

"Policemen don't come on positive to teen-agers," said a boy. "It's like we're sub-people. Not all of them do it, but some do."

"The intent always seems to be to break up the party, at least in Terra Linda and Marinwood," another boy said. "In Novato, police are not as aggressive. They just tell the kids to be cool and quiet."

San Rafael Police Chief Lawrence P. Kelly, who was not a panel member but stepped forth from the audience to field several questions, said police adopted a new procedure after the melee.

Instead of going out in person, police now telephone first and urge the party's host to quiet things down, Kelly said. He said the new plan has worked on some 65 complaints received since it was instituted.

Police Sgt. David H. Jones, a panelist, noted, however, that the phone procedure would not have been used in a case this serious. Nearby residents had complained of drag racing in the streets and urination on the sidewalks.

Kelly and the teen-agers hashed the party's incidents at length, frequently disagreeing on key facts, such as how badly the policemen were provoked before they drew their clubs.

"Sometimes kids get rude to police and provoke police action," said Jones.

"I was scared," admitted Patrolman James R. Cunha, who helped break up the party. "When I went home that night, I couldn't sleep." Patrolman Walter P. Kosta said, "I'm a human being. Some people expect me to be calm all the time, but I can't do that."

Discussion turned to what police can do to establish a positive image in the community. Kelly said their efforts were limited by lack of time. Donald M. Rose, juvenile officer, said teen-agers should feel free to step forward and meet policemen.

A girl, however, pointed out that some of the partygoers already knew the policemen who allegedly mistreated them. "We know them — why did they act this way?" she asked.

Several teen-agers said busting up parties creates a problem by forcing them back on the streets, and complained there was little else to do in Terra Linda.

One person suggested that a citizen with a complaint about a party should talk to the party's host first before calling police, but panelist Jerry Herman, deputy district attorney, said that approach was likely to produce neighborhood feuds. Complainants' identity is kept secret by police unless matters reach the trial stage.

Almost everyone agreed the meeting was fruitful, and several possibilities for similar future meetings were discussed, though no date was set.

Petaluma Hospital Board Edges Toward New Site

By ERNEST MURPHY

Directors of the Petaluma Hospital District last night edged a bit closer toward committing themselves to building a new hospital in Southern Sonoma.

Charles E. Cowen, who administers the district's Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma, told the board it can place a bond proposal to finance a new facility on the June 10 ballot provided it obtains the approval of the Petaluma City Council and board of education by mid-March. (They are the local bodies already involved in that election).

Cowen suggested the board make every effort to raise as much private money as possible before going to district voters, who include residents of Cotati and Rohnert Park as well as Petaluma.

(Estimates made earlier this year peg the cost of a new hospital at around $11 million.)

Cowen advised the board to hire a professional fund raiser to aid in the campaign before the election, whereupon director Francis M. Crinella said he doubted that Petalumans would accept an "outsider" coming in to "relieve them of their spare change."

Crinella said he could not support a fund drive if it "smacked of slickness or contrived hard-sell."

The administrator countered that the fund raiser would organize local residents to do the actual hustling, confining his own activities to "public education."

The board, on being informed by Cowen that at least two fund-raising organizations have agreed to meet with district representatives to determine whether they can help a hospital drive, decided to meet with them at noon Dec. 6 at Hillcrest.

In a related move, the board officially accepted a report by the district's citizens advisory committee, which recommends that a new hospital be built on McDowell Boulevard just north of Lucchesi Park in East Petaluma. The committee's second choice was Denman Flats, an area north of Petaluma and several miles south of Cotati.

The Petaluma Hospital District Board Also:

GIFT — Accepted a $2,600 donation from the Petaluma branch of the Sons of Italy for purchase of orthopedic equipment.

COMMITTEE — Decided to ask the citizens advisory committee members to serve on a permanent citizens committee augmented by additional volunteers from the community.

X-RAYS — Was informed the hospital's new nuclear medicine program, in which radioactive isotopes are injected and used to diagnose a variety of maladies, is operating on a sound financial footing, bringing the district an average of $100 for each test. The program, about a month old, was incorporated in this year's budget.

FEES — Tabled action on a request by local doctors for a 14 per cent increase in emergency room surgery fees. Board members, who were told the hike is needed to offset inflation, decided to examine emergency room revenues before acting.

OCCUPANCY — Was told that Hillcrest had an 81.16 per cent occupancy rate in October, compared with 73 per cent a year ago. Cowen said the average length of hospitalization at Hillcrest is now about four days, one of the shortest average stays in the nation. He also said the hospital's new temporary office building will be ready for use by mid-December.

LABOR — Took under advisement a proposal from the district's lawyer, Joseph E. Sheeks, which would establish procedural guidelines for board recognition of employee organizations in the event that district employees join unions.

MEETING — Agreed to hold its next regular meeting at noon Dec. 19 at Hillcrest.

Trio To Present Sunday Recital

The Primavera Trio will give a recital in the Music Associates Chamber Music series at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Angelico Hall at Dominican College in San Rafael.

The trio consists of Edna Comerchero on the flute; Jane Rabin on the cello and Janice Eastman on the harpsichord and piano. They will play works by LeClair, Lacomme, Telemann, Martinu and Goossens.

There is a $2.50 charge for adults and 75 cents for students.

Callers To Find Little Assistance

BALTIMORE (UPI) — In an effort to reduce the number of calls for "information," the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company has decided not to answer calls to 411 until seven or eight rings.

Then a recording will strongly suggest looking up the number in a phone book. If that doesn't work, an operator will come on the line to provide the desired number.

Heart 'Guinea Pig' Louis Russell Dies

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Louis Russell, who underwent a heart transplant six years ago to "help other people live" and survived longer than any other heart recipient, died this morning from a heart disturbance.

Russell, 49, died at 10:23 a.m. EDT after lapsing into critical condition shortly after midnight, doctors said at the Medical College of Virginia, where the transplant took place.

Russell had been in the hospital since Oct. 7 when a fluctuating heart beat was discovered. A pacemaker was installed on Oct. 11. Yesterday, serious disruptions of his heart's rhythm occurred and, after a slight recovery late in the day, the disturbances became more severe.

In an October interview, Russell discussed why he had the transplant six years ago.

"I was dying and it didn't make much difference what happened," he said.

"My heart was in bad shape, worn out. I figured I'd give the operation a try. They needed a lot of information about transplants and I wanted to help give it to them. Also, maybe I'd survive."

He said he didn't "mind being a guinea pig. I'm alive. And maybe because of me and my operation what doctors learn can help other people live."

Russell was given the heart of a 17-year-old Providence, Va. boy who was killed by a stray bullet while witnessing a fight in his hometown. Russell had a close relationship with the boy's family and the boy's mother called Russell "her boy."

Hospital information officer Bill Van Pelt made the death announcement.

"Louis Russell has died. The cause was a heart related problem."

Van Pelt said the longest living heart transplant patient is now Betty Anick, who received a new heart at St. Luke's hospital in Milwaukee on Oct. 21, 1968, two months after Russell got his new heart.

Last week, when two persons received transplanted hearts at the Medical College of Virginia, Russell met with each beforehand to help them get through the difficult operation and recovery.

peared startled and shot his colleague an astonished glance as Anderson cast his vote.

Blinder told the I-J at the drug abuse seminar two weeks ago that he expected his proposal to fail because he thought Anderson, Capurro and Colteaux would oppose it.

But Anderson told the I-J after the meeting that he has long felt that current drug law enforcement is ineffective. "The situation just isn't good the way it stands now," he said.

Only brief council discussion — without public comment — was held before the vote.

A small audience of about 20 heard the voting, and some city residents said they were outraged at the council's action.

"How can you say you're speaking for the people of San Anselmo in voting for something like that?" shouted a man in the back of the room. "Until the people make up their minds on this, you better send out that letter (to the legislature) under your own names — not as representatives of the City of San Anselmo," he added.

"I'm for that," another spoke up. "This is what I call a railroad."

No public discussion was held on the issue because councilmen agreed they had heard the arguments before. "We've heard it all," Anderson said. "We could hold another drug seminar tonight, and tomorrow, and the day after that ... there's no right or wrong answer."

Colteaux abstained from voting because he said he didn't think the matter was something the council had any business discussing. "This is an important issue," he told colleagues. "But it's not an issue we were elected to express our opinions on ... so I don't feel I would be at all representative of the citizens of San Anselmo in voting on this."

The resolution summarizes the arguments supporting decriminalization. Among them:

1. Strict enforcement of drug laws tends to partially dry up the supply of the drug, leading to high prices.

2. Drug addicts — faced with these exorbitant prices — tend to rob and burglarize innocent people to support their habits. Therefore, a program to supply drugs to addicts would decrease crimes against property or person that result from limited supply and high prices.

3. The present law enforcement approach has failed to suppress drug use. Addiction in countries with a program of supplying drugs at low cost is no worse than in countries with strict laws.

4. Drug entrepreneurs — pushers — could be put out of business entirely if drugs were distributed to addicts at low cost.

Capurro said flatly that he opposed any decriminalization. "Drug law enforcement has done some good," he said.

But Blinder disagreed. "We've had drug use for as many centuries as you can go back. But we never had a drug problem until many drugs became illegal," in the early 1990s, he said.

Clemency Board Reports Its Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Presidential Clemency Board has sent its first recommendations for action on Vietnam war resisters to President Ford.

Although a board spokesman refused yesterday to say how many cases had been sent to Ford, it was understood they included only civilians who had been imprisoned as resisters before Ford announced his earned re-entry amnesty program Sept. 16.

The board, headed by former Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., expects Ford to decide whether to approve its initial recommendations "within a week or so," the spokesman said. 5

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Beware Of Criminals

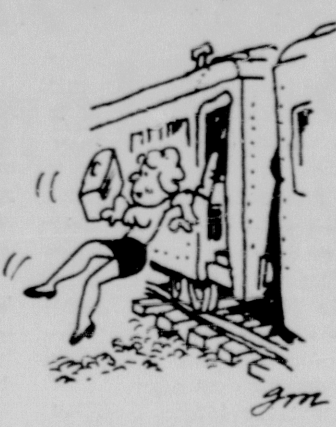

Should the government warn you that some of its public properties are infested with criminals? "No," said the Supreme Court in a recent case.

Two youths were seriously injured when attacked by crooks while they were visiting the beach on the campus at UC-Santa Barbara. They sued the State for not warning visitors that there were criminals in the area.

The Court said that the public should be generally aware of possible violent crime in unlit and little used areas.

In some situations there may be a special duty to warn or to look out for the victim. In another case a railroad found that one of its passengers did not have the fare to the next town. The conductor would not give her credit. He stopped the train and let the passenger off between two towns. The passenger had to walk past a camp area known to be frequented by delinquents. The passenger was attacked and she sued the railroad.

The court said that the railroad had a duty to act reasonably bly and care for its passengers. It failed to do so and had to pay for the injuries.

In several other cases, landlords of large housing developments have been held responsible for attacks and burglaries. Usually there is a history of incidents. The landlord may fail to properly light the halls, or fail to act reasonably in repairing locks and safety devices. The tenant must show that there is a connection between the failures of the landlord and the loss caused by the criminal activities.

In another case a car owner left his keys in his car when parked in a "skid row" area. A thief stole the car and ran over the plaintiff. The court held the negligent car owner liable. He should have foreseen the likelihood of theft by an irresponsible driver.

Similarly a bar owner must act reasonably to keep his unruly patrons from beating up other patrons.

A carrier has to use reasonable care to protect its passengers from strangers who are drunk or quarrelsome and injure other passengers.

Ski Ridges Are Ready

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Snow is sparse on the ski ridges of the Sierra, but at least 13 resorts planned to be open for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Snow depths ranged from one to three feet, but operators reported that skiing was limited and rocks still show on many of the slopes.

The report from the California State Automobile Association at 10 a.m.:

Interstate 80: Boreal Ridge, opens Friday with a small chair. One foot base snow, limited coverage; Soda Springs, open Thursday, 1½ foot base, 1 chair; Sugar Bowl, 1½ foot base, poor skiing upper slopes, open today with 3 chairs and a rope tow.

Highway 89: Alpine Meadows, 11 inches bottom, 2 feet top, open Thursday with 1 chair and a poma; Homewood, 1½ feet base, fair to good on limited packed, open Thursday; Squaw Valley, marginal skiing, open Thursday, 7 lifts.

Highway 395: Mammoth Mt., 1 foot, poor to fair with some rocks, open today with 5 chairs, 2 T-bars.

Two Slayers Will Face Firing Squad

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Two young black arm men were sentenced today to be shot at sunrise Jan. 21 after they declined to select the manner of their execution — a choice given them under Utah law.

Both Dale S. Pierre and William A. Andrews stood silently as Second District Judge John F. Wahlquist sentenced each of them three times to die before the firing squad.

Pierre, 21, a native of Trinidad, W. I., stood mute when asked how he preferred to be executed and the court automatically picked the firing squad instead of the gallows.

Andrews, 20, Jonesboro, La., said he wished to make no choice because he would challenge the century-old section of the Utah Code which provides each condemned man with the choice of two ways to die. In case that appeal fails, however, Andrews elected the firing squad for the record.

Both men were also sentenced to five years to life for their convictions on two counts of aggravated robbery arising from the same incident—in which five whites were shot, stabbed in the ears with a pen, and forced to drink a drain cleaner. Three of them died.

Wahlquist said he would stay the execution of the death penalty for both Pierre and Andrews pending the outcome of their appeals. He told them he saw no cause of action for appeal under state law, but said there was a basis for appeal under federal statutes.

Welfare Fraud Is Charged

Rogers Jones, a member of the Marin County Housing Authority board, faces misdemeanor charges of receiving $256 in illegal welfare benefits.

The two-count criminal complaint charges Jones, 74, of Marin City, with receiving old age benefits during November and December of 1973.

Deputy district attorney Milton W. Hyams said Jones was not eligible for the welfare payments because he has a bank account "in the low five figures."

Jones' attorney, Robert B. McCreadie of Novato, has filed papers in Marin Municipal Court arguing that the complaint should be dismissed because welfare officials never demanded he make restitution before filing the charge, though required to by law.

A hearing is set for Dec. 5. Hyams said Jones also is under investigation in connection with other possible welfare fraud offenses.

in this very House, those politicians who are pure and above reproach?"

In written testimony to the committee, she praised the former New York governor for his "courage to take leadership on such issues as abortion, civil rights, minority employment and education" in his home state.

"Let us not establish a standard for this nominee to which we ourselves would not be subjected," she said.

Rep. Abzug said that because Rockefeller has been nominated by the first non-elected president in U.S. history, final confirmation by Congress should be held over until the new Congress convenes.

"The men and women who will be seated in January, winners in the first national election held since the Watergate exposure, are the closest who can come to a direct expression of the people's will," she said. "If there is to be a vote on this nomination, it should be theirs."

Rockefeller family senior financial adviser J. Richardson Dillworth will be called to testify in public next week and questioned "in a general way about how the family operates," a ranking committee Democrat said.

CREEK

In blocking the project three weeks ago, Supervisors sitting as the county flood control district board were told their action made the county liable for $12 million in damages.

It was not until last Thursday that they were told that any supervisors acting to block the project could be personally liable for all cost incurred in the first three stages.

The six-year-old project is being built by the Army Corps of Engineers with the county expected to acquire right-of-way using state funds.

Supervisors yesterday authorized hiring another flood control engineer and right-of-way appraiser as part of their approval.

Supervisor Arrigoni, in making the motion to proceed, said he still opposed the project but that alternative solutions studied would not be economically feasible.

Marty Kent, a leader in the 1969 citizens' sit-in to block earlier stages of the project, predicted yesterday that eventually the project would proceed through San Anselmo.

She said an amount less than the estimated $15 million cost of the project would have been sufficient to purchase the Corte Madera Creek flood plan as an alternative to concreting the creek.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste had left the meeting prior to the vote.

Unemployment Lines Lengthen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department said today unemployment insurance rolls lengthened in 46 states during the first week in November, reflecting the growing number of jobless Americans from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The department estimated that 2,213,300 persons received unemployment benefits during the week ended Nov. 9 — an increase of 110,200 over the previous week and a whopping 794,400 over the same week a year ago.

OBITUARIES

MRS. PIERCE

Private service for Theresa M. Pierce, 47, former secretary at Hamilton Air Force Base, was held today in Novato.

Mrs. Pierce of 1332 Monte Maria Avenue, Novato, died Sunday at a San Francisco hospital after a long illness. She was the wife of Leslie W. Pierce, a senior utility man with Western California Telephone Co.

Mrs. Pierce served in the Women's Army Corps during World War II and had been a federal Civil Service employee for 15 years and worked at Hamilton for about eight years until 1970.

She had been a resident of Novato since 1955 and formerly lived in San Rafael. She was a native of San Francisco.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons, Jon A. Pierce of San Jose and Samuel J. Pierce of Newport News, Va., a daughter, Terri Brooks of Novato; her mother, Asta Hughey of San Rafael; a brother, James O. Schmidt of Palermo, Fla., a sister, Ditter Smith of Novato and a granddaughter.

Burial was at Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato.

MR. ENGSTROM

A graveside service for Carl R. Engstrom, former West Marin building contractor and a longtime Stinson Beach resident, will be held tomorrow in Happy Camp, Siskiyou County.

Engstrom, 77, died Monday in Happy Camp following a short illness.

He moved there a year ago after 24 years in Stinson Beach. A native of St. Paul, Minn., Engstrom operated some movie theaters in Minnesota before coming to California in 1949 and going into the construction business.

Survivors include his wife Aina of Happy Camp; a daughter, Patricia L. Ostler, city clerk of Mill Valley, and one granddaughter.

The family has asked that memorial contributions be sent to the donor's favorite charity.

FRANCES BAIRD

Frances Baird, 52, of Tiburon died Sunday in a local hospital, the Marin County Health Department has reported.

Her body was cremated and the ashes scattered at sea.

ERNEST LINSON

Ernest Linson, 73, a retired chicken rancher, died yesterday at the Hill Road Convalescent Hospital after a long illness.

Linson, a resident of the hospital, had been a resident of Novato for four years and formerly lived in Fort Bragg, Mendocino County. He was a native of Missouri.

Surviving are a son, Ledrien Linson of Texas; and two daughters, Marcella Weedon of Washington, D.C., and Juanita Thompson of Whittier.

Inurnment will be at Rose Hill Cemetery, Whittier.

JUSTO GARCIA

Graveside service for Justo D. Garcia of San Rafael was held today at Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael.

Garcia, 35, died Sunday in a fall from a window of his third floor apartment at 1330 Fourth Street.

He was a maintenance man for apartment buildings. A native of Lima, Peru, Garcia has lived in California 13 years and in Marin, eight years.

He is survived by his wife, Jeanette H. Garcia; his daughter, Jeanette M. Garcia; his parents, Alejandro D. and Adelina Garcia; his sister, Victoria Herrera, and three brothers, Jose, Jesus M. and Juan A. Garcia.

IRENE GREEN

Irene Green, 83, a 21-year resident of Marin City, died last Friday in Marin General Hospital and not at home as reported yesterday in the Independent-Journal.

She is survived by three daughters, Beatrice Van Dyke of Marin City, Alzeper Johnson of Marin City and Clarice Simpson of Dallas, Tex., and one son, Gordon Christful of New York City.

MRS. HEISE

Matilda Heise, a resident of Santa Venetia since 1958, died yesterday in a local convalescent hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 89.

Mrs. Heise was born in New Jersey, and was a practical nurse in charge of convalescent homes for many years in the east before her retirement. She moved to California 25 years ago. She was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church in San Rafael.

She is survived by one son, Stanley B. Heise of Santa Venetia, and one grandson.

Private funeral will be held in Philadelphia, Pa., followed by burial in the Northwood Cemetery, Philadelphia.

MRS. UTTER

A Mass of the Christian Burial for Dorothy G. Utter of Palo Alto, sister of Verna McGill of Belvedere, will be at 10 a.m. Friday in the Church of St. Anne in San Francisco.

Mrs. Utter, 75, died Monday. She was a native of San Francisco.

Other survivors include a daughter, Marilyn Spindler; a son, David W. Utter of San Francisco; her mother, Lulu Bennett; six grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the Gantner-Maison-Domergue Mortuary, San Francisco.

Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

GONZALO RIVERA

Gonzalo Rivera of Mexico City died today in a local hospital after a long illness. He was 78.

He was born and reared in Mexico City where he was a retired professor. He had been visiting his daughter, Rose Marie Miller in San Rafael for the past four months.

Funeral and burial will be in Mexico City.

FRANK MORGAN

Frank L. Morgan of Millbrae, brother of William Morgan of Greenbrae, died yesterday in Burlingame. He was 65.

Morgan was a native of Virginia.

He is also survived by his wife, Mildred Morgan of Millbrae; two daughters, Margaret Thimsen of South San Francisco and Diane Hendrickson of Sacramento; a son, William Morgan of Taiwan and 10 grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11:30 a.m. Friday at the Chapel of the Highlands, El Camino Real at Millwood Drive, Millbrae. Burial will be in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma.

Memorial contributions to the Millbrae Baptist Church youth program would be preferred by the family.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS CEMETERY in the Heart of our County

Marin pioneers chose a site in the heart of our county as a final resting place for their families. Today this location—at the west end of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael—is still convenient to all Marin points.

Marinites who choose Mount Tamalpais do so with the assurance that its beauty will grow with the years. The interest from a quarter-million dollar endowment fund—twice the legal requirement—is dedicated to the constant care and improvement of this 57-acre site.

Perhaps—like many Marin families—you wish to make your own final arrangements to spare others difficult decisions. If so, we invite your inquiry or a personal visit.

Supervisors Approve Redistricting Plans

Redistricting of Marin's five supervisorial districts was approved unanimously yesterday by county supervisors, who adopted a modified version of a plan developed by Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini.

The modification of Giacomini's plan rejected his proposal to shift the College Park and Murray Park areas of Larkspur from Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni's Second District to his own Fourth District.

Arrigoni protested that the shift would transfer 480 residents from his district, which would then be the smallest in population. He said it would necessitate another redistricting in the near future to increase his district's population.

Other features of Giacomini's plan, described in Thursday's Independent-Journal, call for expanding Giacomini's sprawling district to cover virtually all rural lands not already part of it.

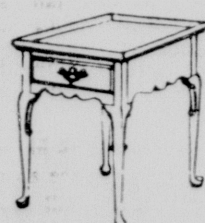

Three Vessels Burglarized

Three vessels berthed at the Marin Yacht Club in San Rafael were burglarized this week, city police reported today.

Police said hatch covers on yachts owned by Frank L. Paganini and Coulter McKeever of San Rafael were removed, and said a stern cover was slit on a boat owned by Carroll McKee of Carmel.

In each case, a thief took stereo and television equipment from the yachts, but did not ransack them, police said.

Joint Powers Pact Advances

A proposed city-county joint powers agreement, required if Marin is to become eligible for more than $8 million in federal housing and community development funds, inched forward on several fronts yesterday. (See Novato City Council story on this matter, page 1; also other supervisors stories, page 1.)

County supervisors approved the document unanimously yesterday, as did the San Anselmo City Council, while the Novato City Council gave conditional support. Others cities will consider it in the next two weeks.

If Marin is to become eligible, the county and all cities but Ross and Belvedere must enter the joint powers agreement.

The agreement is needed to qualify Marin as an "urban county" under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

(An urban county, entitled to a greater share of the funds, is a county in a metropolitan area whose population, in any combination of unincorporated areas and municipalities of less than 50,000 working in cooperation, exceeds 200,000 persons.)

If Marin's joint powers agreement is approved, more than $8 million will flow to the county over the next six years. If it isn't, only about $2 million will be allocated to Marin.

The $8 million must be designated for community development programs such as parks, street and utility improvements. Separate funds for housing will become available later.

The proposed agreement, worked out by County Administrator John F. Barrows and the various city managers, would create a special committee to plan how the funds will be used.

That committee, made up of one representative from each participating city and the county, would set priorities for the use of the funds.

The community development plan prepared by the committee would be submitted to all city councils and the board of supervisors for ratification. Each body would have veto power over any project or activity proposed for within its boundaries.

Barrows told supervisors yesterday that the matter is on a "fast track" since the application deadline for such funds is April 15.

By that time, the committee must be formed and a plan developed and submitted to the Association of Bay Area Governments for approval.

He said the matter is moving so fast that the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, which will oversee use of the funds, has not had time to gear itself to aid counties in preparing plans.

The Novato City Council expressed general support for the agreement last night but said the funds should be divided among jurisdictions on a population basis.

It also said it wanted a one-year termination clause in the joint powers document.

A spokesman for the county administrator's office said the Novato demands will be considered but would not speculate on their acceptability to the county or other cities.

Economic Report Is Accepted

A consultant's study on the economic feasibility of the Marin County General Plan was adopted yesterday by county supervisors who accepted some recommendations and rejected others.

The major recommendation among those accepted in the Baxter, McDonald and Smart report was that the housing goals be modified.

The plan currently calls for 20,000 new low and moderate-cost homes to be built by 1990.

Supervisors, while leaving that figure in the plan, said "more realistic" five-year goals should be set.

"The plan says we should be building 1,200 to 1,300 per year," Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguere said. "I think we'll be lucky if we get 10 per cent of that."

While it was not discussed what the five-year goal for housing should be, the board directed Acting Planning Director Werner von Gundell to return in the future with those "realistic goals."

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

STUDIO — Deferred action until Jan. 7 on a proposal to build a music recording studio and several small cottages on 21 acres above Marin City. The board's delay was prompted by requests that Congress be given time to appropriate funds to purchase the land for the Golden Gate National Recreation Area. The land is owned by Warren Glass.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Robert E. Eklund Jr. and Arthur Miller from the Marin County Housing Authority board. The supervisors will consider filling the vacancies Dec. 10.

NEW VOTER — Approved a $3,000 subsidy to the New Voter education program. It seeks to inform youths on the election process.

ROAD — Transferred $14,000 within the road budget for road improvement at the curve on North San Pedro Road between Birch and La Pasada ways. The funds were shifted from a project to provide interim improvements at the intersection of Merrydale and North San Pedro roads.

NAME — Approved a suggestion from the fairgrounds, auditorium and cultural commission that the county fairgrounds-auditorium area be called the Marin County Civic Center Complex for advertising purposes.

REZONING — Set Jan. 28 for a hearing on rezoning proposals for the San Geronimo Valley area.

EMERGENCY — Submitted to Marin's 11 cities a preliminary plan for establishing an emergency 911 telephone number for police, fire and ambulance service.

Teacher Hit For Centerfold

APPLE VALLEY (UPI) — Lou Zivkovich, 33, a high school teacher who posed nude for a magazine centerfold, still doesn't know whether he has a job.

The state office of administrative hearings says it will consider Zivkovich's appeal Jan. 29 challenging his dismissal as a physical education teacher at Apple Valley High School by the Victor Valley Joint Union High School District. A three member panel will hear the case.

The grounds for dismissal were Zivkovich's nude appearance in Playgirl magazine, and for missing "several hours" of school after returning from Hawaii, where the photos were taken.

Priority Status Voted For Vets

Vietnam War-era military veterans will get preferential treatment when they apply for some county jobs, the board of supervisors unanimously decided yesterday.

Veterans applying for county jobs within eight years of their discharge will get a bonus of five extra points on the county 100 point competitive evaluation scale. Disabled veterans will get a 10-point bonus.

The boost for veterans will apply only in jobs that have an education requirement of two years of college or less. About half the county's 1,600 jobs fall into this category.

Veterans competing for jobs that require more education or work experience than this must do so on their own merits and ability, and will receive no point advantage, according to county personnel director Mar-en Rinne.

She had earlier recommended that the point bonus for veterans apply only to "entry-level" jobs — those requiring a high school diploma or equivalent work experience.

However, supervisors agreed that this would amount to "discrimination against veterans with education," according to supervisor Robert A. Roumiguere, and voted to increase the education limit. The purpose of making the veterans advantage apply only to those with little education is "to aid veterans who have the most acute problems finding employment... those who have not had time to develop sufficient job skills to make them competitive in the labor market. Veterans with higher education... are able to compete successfully on their own merits," Mrs. Rinne said.

But Robert R. Souza, representing a group of about 30 veterans who gathered for the discussion, told supervisors that it wasn't enough in today's job market to have only a high school diploma, and that the veterans boost should also apply to those with more education.

According to Mrs. Rinne, the five point boost for veterans is enough to move a job candidate well up the hiring scale. She said that in a recent search for a deputy probation officer, the boost would have moved a candidate ranked No. 18 on the list to No. 3.

Those considered "disabled" under the program are those found to be 30 per cent disabled under the standard military disability evaluation, supervisors agreed.

A Political Crisis Hits Turkey; Lira Is Devalued

ANKARA (UPI) — Turkey today was hit by a new political crisis, a devaluation of the lira and new campus violence between right and left-wing students.

In addition, politicians said the Turkish army should take over all of Cyprus if ousted President Archbishop Makarios returns there. Foreign Minister Melih Ecevit said in an official statement a Makarios return would spell trouble.

The political crisis broke when the Republican People's Party announced it would vote against the new cabinet of Premier Sadi Irmak, dooming it to defeat and reopening a 70-day-old government crisis.

The RPP, led by former premier Bulent Ecevit, said in a one sentence announcement it had decided to vote against the Irmak government in Friday's confidence test in the National Assembly.

Irmak's fall would reopen a government crisis that began Sept. 18 with the collapse of Ecevit's coalition.

Novato Woman Hospitalized

Emilie Ann Stevenson, 44, of Novato was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with multiple scrapes and bruises received in a two-car crash yesterday on Highway 101 near San Rafael.

The Highway Patrol said she was a passenger in an auto driven by Richard Dean Gates, 66, also of Novato. The other auto involved, according to officers, was operated by Joseph Kiraly Jr., 22, of Kentfield.

The patrol had no details of the accident which occurred at 5:15 p.m. in a northbound lane.

Cuts At Hamilton; How About Pentagon?

The announcement that the Air Force will abandon Hamilton Air Force Base by 1976 hardly came as a complete surprise. For years, rumors that the base was to close have been popping up. And when it was placed on reserve status last year, it seemed obvious that was an interim step toward closing.

It has not yet been announced whether Army and Navy will continue at the base, where they took over some facilities when the Air Force moved all except its reserve units last year. Perhaps they will be around a long time, though we rather doubt it.

WE WILL MISS the Air Force. It has been part of Marin County for nearly a half century. Its presence at Hamilton had much to do with the rapid growth of Novato. It has been a good neighbor, and contributed a large share to Ma-

Independent Journal

rin's prosperity.

The phase-out of Hamilton, however, appeared inevitable. The base was designed for another time, another kind of Air Force. Unmanned rockets and missiles have taken over defenses that used to depend on fighter planes. Long-range, high-altitude planes have made maintenance of a large network of bases no longer necessary.

Removal of the Air Force from Hamilton is part of a nationwide cutback and consolidation by the Defense Department. The Pentagon claims the overall changes will allow more than $3 billion per year to be transferred to "more combat capability."

We're all for that.

HOWEVER, one thing about the changes announced to date troubles us: No reduction is announced for the Pentagon itself.

United States military personnel now total approximately 2,150,000. This is a small standing force for a nation of more than 200 million people. It means about one out of every 100 is in military uniform.

To maintain adequate national defense with a force of this size means that a large percentage should be in combat-ready units. For this reason, it makes sense to consolidate or phase out many units scattered around the country which have little combat readiness. But it would make more sense to reduce the "brass" at the Pentagon, which is largely bureaucracy.

There are too many desk-bound officers. There are too many field grade officers. There are nearly as many generals as there were when more than 14 million of us were under arms in World War II.

What we have is too much like the legendary Mexican army, in which the joke had it that generals outnumbered privates.

THE DEFENSE Department's consolidation plan involves 111 bases in 40 states and Puerto Rico, Hamilton being one of them.

We'd like to see it involve reorganization and cutback at the Pentagon, too. If there's "fat" in the defense budget, that's the surest place to find it.

"That completes the questions. If there are no further answers, we'll adjourn."

Confirmation Of Rockefeller Will Attest System's Value

WASHINGTON — The outlook is that Nelson Rockefeller will be decisively confirmed as vice president — as he should be.

He has earned confirmation. He has earned it by his long record of public service, by his repeated endorsement by a very large number of voters, and by the substance of his testimony before the congressional committees.

HONEST DOUBTS were raised during the course of that testimony — questions about whether Rockefeller is unfitted for office by his great wealth, whether his charities corrupted public officials, and, finally, the impropriety of the secret financing of the anti-Goldberg campaign biography.

These incidents in Rockefeller's record show the value of the kind of searching investigation into fitness required by the 25th Amendment. Such disclosure-all scrutiny contrasts sharply with the careless and casual way vice presidents are nominated at the conventions.

The significant aspect of the hearings is that Rockefeller is in the process of being confirmed, not because the doubts and questions were slighted or ignored, but because they were candidly examined and thoughtfully resolved on Rockefeller's side.

A GOOD CASE STUDY of how the Senate committee and, I believe, the nation reached their conclusion about the nomination is the evolution of Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W. Va.

Senator Byrd began as a Rockefeller advocate — he proposed him to President Ford — then became during the course of the hearings a Rockefeller critic and the toughest questioner, and ended as a Rockefeller supporter.

This wasn't vacillation; it was the process of honest examination and thinking. The nation might be well served if all vice presidents should be chosen by the method of the 25th Amendment. If the two parties don't do better at the 1976 conventions, a change in the system will need to be made.

THERE ARE TWO aspects of the Rockefeller hearings which should be brought more fully into focus.

There is the contention of some that great wealth should disqualify a person from high office. Let us not apply a class discrimination to public service. Wealth does not make a man unfit for office, any more than poverty fits him for office. Some have a prejudice against college professors, but being a college professor did not keep Woodrow Wilson from being a good president. Bankruptcy did not keep Harry Truman from being a great president, any more than wealth kept Averell Harriman from being a good governor of New York.

And let's not overdo this point about Mr. Ford and Rockefeller not being elected to their present positions. They weren't, but there was greater voter input into their selections than in a national election. One man chooses a vice president at the conventions, and no one deliberately votes for him in the election. ©1974, Los Angeles Times.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON:

Anthropologists Look The Other Way

MEXICO CITY — It had never struck home before that anthropologists are giving sociologists serious competition in the race to annex the world. In fact, the evidence here is that the anthropologists, whose imperialistic urge already has been asserting jurisdiction on the moon, are so driven to expand that they are nearly ignoring something that demands their urgent attention. And yours, and mine.

To explain:

TO AN ANTHROPOLOGIST, Mexico is paradise. Layer upon layer of civilizations extend in every direction, from Guatemala to the Rio Grande, waiting to be dug up and converted into Ph.D. theses. Here in the capital is the grandest museum of its type anywhere. So it is logical that the American Anthropological Association chose to meet here this year.

And if Mexico is paradise to them, then their convention should be the end of the rainbow for any writer in search of a character, or a subject.

The characters were lounging fraternally in the lobby and the mezzanine cocktail space of the Maria Isabel the night I discovered them. Many were in expedition gear, with beards, boots, traveling companions and other intellectual baggage. Their elders were more in the style of Philadelphia bankers — obviously department chairmen.

The subjects were a point of special pride, the manifestation of the science's outward spread. The association's literature speaks of anthropology as "a rapidly growing, broadly interdisciplinary combination of humanistic, social science and biological approaches to the study of man . . . recently begun to include political or administrative applications of its perspective . . ."

ONE OF THOSE FISCAL conservatives who delights in ribbing government departments about the esoteric subjects they finance would have boggled at the material here.

Objects To Story On Highlands Report

As a Marin County-Sausalito resident I am highly indignant at your Nov. 13 article about the Highland development in Marin City. I find the article's reporting to be racist at best and an insult to any sensitive and discriminate reader.

Was the purpose of this article to inform the public of legitimate findings on marketing feasibility of certain structures in a certain area or was the intent to slant these findings and create negative racial feelings and community divisiveness?

The proposed development would be very much within Marin City. I personally would not want to be isolated from my neighbors by brick or stone and would not live in an area or with people requiring such things. I have personal friends living in $40,000 plus homes in Marin City. I find Marin City to be an attractive area with no more need for landscaping (and perhaps less) than my own town of Sausalito. I resent the mention of Marin City's "reputation" without clarification of such "reputation". I have personal friends living in Marin City who are former Sausalito and Mill Valley residents. Are their names now blighted? Is mine?

There is strong resistance in Marin City against low-income housing for the proposed development. Most Marin City residents desire to increase their tax base through moderate and high-priced housing in order to further the development of their area. I resent the mention of a lawsuit by "several Marin City residents" supporting low-income housing for the development without representation of the other sentiments in Marin City . . .

Unusual Recipe For Tamalpais Soup

Recipe for Tamalpais Hot Soup (or Irresponsible Cooks Spoiled This Broth): Start with the basic standard ingredients of a fire protection district, two fire stations with trucks and equipment, a crew of well proven firemen, and a quiescent public, who will become aroused as you proceed.

Add, but don't stir in, one new militaristic fire chief, who will not soften or blend in with the main ingredients.

Throw in a resolution to arm the firemen for use whenever the chief and one director deem it necessary. Yank out after public protest but don't discard. By your votes, two of you still favor this resolution so you may be able to insert it later.

Stir in a plan to bring peace officers into the new proposed fire station. Yank out after public protest.

Throw in a decision to buy a house for the fire chief to live in. Yank out after public protest.

Stir in an unusual contract for the chief. Modify or delete several clauses due to public protest or advice from county counsel. Finally discard as having been too controversial in the first place.

Stir in several other controversial ingredients, such as confusing changes in format of the agenda and minutes of the board meetings, inequity in in-district housing allowances (correct this, sort of, after much protest) and questionable hiring practices.

Simmer indefinitely until it curdles. This resulting Tamalpais soup may now prove too hot to handle. A now thoroughly aroused public may decide to throw the whole mess out.

No Place In Marin County For Racist Community

On Saturday evening, I read the paper of a report submitted by a developer of a proposed project in Marin City that essentially says "racism makes money." The entire thrust of the report is so outrageous I could not believe what I was reading.

The report speaks of the "ethnic nature of the immediate area . . . becoming a sales obstacle . . . Because of the proximity of Marin City security of the individual townhouses will be a serious consideration . . . Doors should be provided with dead-bolt type locks."

This point of view is clearly a blatant racist philosophy. There is no room in this community for a project that is built purely on the theory that black should not live with white and that white should not live with black.

We don't need it! We don't need Orange County bigots telling the people of this county how to live and how to relate to people.

I challenge the board of supervisors (especially Michael Wornum, since Marin City is in his district) to denounce emphatically this report, the people responsible for its writing, and censor any further discussion of the proposed project under this cloud of racism.

State's Van Commute Plan Has Possibilities

By EARL G. WATERS

A proposal for the state to sponsor car van commuter pools has been advanced by the Department of Transportation.

Under this plan, the state would purchase vans capable of carrying 12 passengers to transport its employees to and from work. Plans have been announced to institute a pilot project in the Sacramento area with six vans acquired for a one-year experiment.

AT FIRST BLUSH, one may wonder under what authority the state would undertake to get into the transportation business. It might also seem an encroachment on existing transit systems and private commercial enterprises. On closer inspection of the plan, neither question would seem an obstacle, although department officials concede there is some doubt as to the authority to purchase vehicles for such use.

As to competition with transit services or potential free enterprisers, it is pointed out the program does not contemplate operations in areas served by existing services. That being the case, it must be assumed private enterprisers do not deem such service economically feasible.

Nor does the plan propose any form of employee subsidization. Those participating would pay monthly fares to cover all costs including amortization of the vehicle. Since the driver, an employee volunteering to accept the responsibility, would receive free transportation for his services, labor costs involved in other types of transportation are escaped. It is this latter fact which makes the plan feasible from a standpoint of costs to the employees. It brings it down to about 2½ cents a mile.

THE OFFICIALS point out there are hundreds of employees living in the suburban areas around Sacramento, some as far as 60 miles away, who do not have transportation systems available. Most of these are driving alone to work. Even with passengers, the cost involved in ordinary vehicles are considerably higher than the van concept.

The idea was not dreamed up by the bureaucrats but stems from a plan instituted by the 3 M Co. in St. Paul, where the program has been in operation for 18 months and highly successful results are claimed.

The state's involvement in the program would merely be that of coordinator, advancing the state's credit for the vehicle acquisitions and assisting in driver and passenger arrangements as well in accounting and collections.

Since the state is already playing that role in providing parking for employees, purchasing property and assigning parking and collecting monthly fees, the transition from parking to actual transportation is not markedly different in principle.

Because the plan contemplates a single purpose use, merely coming to and from work, the possibility exists for a further rate lowering by state daytime use, between the commuter trips, also at a fixed per mile charge.

Trolley Cars Clang-Clanging Out Of Past Into Future

(Reprinted from Santa Rosa Press-Democrat)

The trolley car is clang-clanging out of the past into the future.

Urban planners, seeking ways to improve city travel, have rediscovered the trolley.

Portland, Ore., and Dayton, Ohio, are two cities that hope to bring back the streetcar. Other cities are considering it. The trolley craze began in earnest when electricity replaced horsepower in the 1880s. A streetcar line became a must for a growing community.

TROLLEYS EVENTUALLY dominated city life. Streetcar lines determined population distribution, created thriving downtown business, and stimulated the growth of residential suburbs.

In Sonoma County, interurban electric trains once provided mass transit between Santa Rosa, Petaluma, Sebastopol and Forestville.

In the Bay Area, interurban trains provided transportation throughout Marin County and the East Bay. In Southern California, interurban cars operated from Santa Monica to San Bernardino and from San Fernando to Long Beach.

An international liars' contest in London is suffering from lack of competition. After Watergate, who would challenge Americans?

For some people, the most galling thing about Watergate is that the one who came closest to the truth may have been Martha Mitchell.

Around the country, some university presidents are talking about eliminating football. Before they would do that, most schools would eliminate their presidents.

In these days, a neighbor who asks to borrow a cup of sugar should be prepared to sign an IOU.

symposium on one angle of the World Population Conference recently held in Bucharest. A couple of other papers mentioned the subject in passing.

But surpassing the ancient wonders of Mexico and other Latin American and African countries that were exhaustively examined here is the modern wonder of their national growth rates. Here, for example, the recent figure has been about 3.4 per cent, which means doubling the population in 21 years. This, whole food prices skyrocket and supplies shrink around the world.

The response from the anthropologists is that this is not quite within their specialty, that there are others whose business is to worry about population growth. But if they can interest themselves in lunar communities and masochist lib, surely there is room in their "rapidly growing, broadly interdisciplinary combination of approaches" for the most acute problem facing man. And that goes for all the rest of us, whatever we do, who have been looking the other way. ©1974, Baltimore Sun.

WILL ROGERS SAYS . . .

THERE WAS A TIME you could ride by interurban train from San Francisco to Chico in the northern Sacramento Valley.

Tracks spread iron spider webs into nearby hamlets and linked town to town. By 1918, some 80,000 trolleys were clanging merrily over 45,000 miles of track in the United States.

In the East, for example, enterprising passengers could board an interurban car in upstate New York and by transferring from one connecting line to the next, ride the rails all the way to Wisconsin.

HORSELESS CARRIAGES soon challenged the streetcars. Buses and automobiles could weave in and out of traffic while the trolleys remained tethered to their power source. Mobility won.

Now the energy crunch is making electric transportation look good again. Modern super-trolleys, called "light rail vehicles" bear little resemblance to the clanky old models.

A federally funded project also is testing the idea of trolley-less trolleys — electric cars drawing power from rechargeable flywheels instead of wires.

IT'S OBVIOUS a mistake was made when electric interurban trains were abandoned.

Imagine how much public transportation within Sonoma County would have been advanced if the former system had been improved and increased.

Now we have only the somewhat limited service provided by Golden Gate Transit buses.

Have you ever tried to get from Cloverdale to Sonoma, or Bodega Bay to Petaluma, or even from Santa Rosa to Sebastopol by bus?

Public transportation in Sonoma County leaves much room for improvement. It's time we started solving the problem.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

San Rafael Flatfeet May Have To Start Sprinting

It may be awhile before San Rafael gets its first lady cop (other than metermaids), but a recent agility test which washed out all the women applicants apparently has caused a few tremors among some of the beefy male fuzz.

"Well, I guess we're going to have to start running," said one, whose athletic prowess is more past than present.

The seven women who wanted to become police officers did well on indoor agility tests, managed to scale a six-foot fence and carry each other 70 yards, but they all wiped out on the 440-dash.

Challenges that such tests are discriminatory and not necessary in determining who will make good policemen have been made in other cities, and San Francisco is under a court order to administer the same physical tests at random to current policemen that applicants are required to pass.

The running issue may be touchy in San Rafael, where one I-J reporter remembers a recent episode in which two police were chasing a car thief. The bad guy escaped after one cop fell into a ditch and the other one ended up in a heap at the bottom of a low chain barrier.

HAD OCCASION last weekend to look up a doctor when a young man of two-and-a-half who was visiting for the weekend was stricken with pains.

When I found that he was in the hands of a Dr. Jolly and a Dr. Sweet, I felt like I'd fallen down the rabbit hole.

Energy Savers

STANFORD (UPI) — By swimming in schools, fish of the same size and age save their energy, it was reported here. The fish swimming just behind and on each side of the leading fish gain forward motion without fighting its backlash.

Then I thought, "Oh dear, business is so bad, what with the lack of babies these days, they have to make up little names for themselves."

As it turned out, Dr. Sweet was sensible in non-saccharine way and Dr. Jolly, although pleasant, didn't laugh much.

Although I'm not much of a name-freak, I did remember that my childhood dentist was Dr. Akers, a joke I never understood because I adored him.

EVER TRIED explaining Americans to a somebody from another country? It's a difficult task because we're awfully diverse — some of us are nice and some are not, some are educated and some are not, some are mannerly and others hit old ladies on the head, some like sauerkraut and others eat chocolate-covered grasshoppers, and so on.

One quality, though, that is present with enough Americans that it really is almost a national trait is a willingness to help our fellow men — at least, if we notice the other guys are down.

In Marin, it's sometimes hard to see the less fortunate — there aren't so many of them and, mostly, they mind their own business, not intruding in the plushier areas.

They are here, though, and their plight in a rich county seems particularly touching.

This is the time of year when we can see that the poor (even the kind of poor who aren't very popular because they seem to want to be poor) get a special treat.

Tiny Tim's Christmas, an enterprise that is almost the sole creation of a young Novatan, Bob Collins, again this year will gather toys and food for the needy.

Canned goods and staples are particularly needed, he says, and donations can be taken to the project's center in the old Purity store in Mill Valley, at East Blitheale Avenue and Camino Alto.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Rockefeller Triumphant — Remade As Tightwad

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Puritan ethic, once believed moribund if not dead, is alive and well at the Rockefeller confirmation hearings.

Regardless of how hedonistic one becomes, there is still something soul-satisfying in seeing a man overcome the weaknesses and temptations that beset him.

I felt uplifted, as I imagine most Americans did, by Nelson Rockefeller's transformation under the purifying fire of congressional inquisition.

HE FIRST CAME before the Senate Rules Committee seemingly a hopeless philanthropist — a dissolute multi-millionaire unable to resist the impulse to press money on his friends and associates.

But by the time he faced the House Judiciary Committee for the second round of hearings, he apparently had undergone complete regeneration.

For in the meantime he had signed the pledge, a written vow to conquer the benevolent demons within him and refrain

Guru Moves To Secret Malibu Estate

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Guru Maharaj Ji has moved to a $400,000 estate in Malibu, a spokesman said yesterday, and says its location kept secret to prevent unbelievers from disturbing his sleep.

The Indian-born Guru, who claims 6 million followers throughout the world, has lived for some time in Denver, and also has homes in India.

John Berzner, information director for the local church of the guru's Divine Light Mission, said the teen-age holy man has taken to spending 75 per cent of his time in the Los Angeles area because many of his devotees live in the area.

The sleeping problem arose when a non-follower stood outside the guru's Denver house at 2 a.m. one night screaming "Maharaj Ji, Maharaj Ji," Berzner said.

The location of the new estate in coastal Malibu will be kept confidential, but it will also serve as West Coast headquarters for the guru's movement.

from generosity for the duration of his term.

SOME IDEA of the mettle it takes to break oneself of habitual bigheartedness may be gleaned from talking with members of Altruists Anonymous.

Created by reformed givers, this organization stands ever ready to help compulsive donors change their ways.

You can see them on street corners in seedy parts of town, miserable wretches bent on giving away their last dimes. Some are reduced to giving the shirts off their backs.

"Since bigheartedness isn't considered contagious or addictive, little has been done in the way of study or research," an AA spokesman told me.

"We don't even know what causes it — why some people can make occasional donations without getting hooked while others feel compelled to give 'til it hurts."

"MOST OF OUR MEMBERS are former social donors. They probably got started by dropping coins in Salvation Army kettles at Christmas.

"The next thing they know they are contributing to every worthy cause in sight. And in the advanced stages they go out looking for someone to give money to."

"The first time I realized I needed help was after one of those Democratic fund-raising marathons on television."

"Haggard and bleary-eyed, I sat through the whole thing, frequently jumping up to dash to the telephone and call in a donation. And I'm a Goldwater Republican."

TAKING THE PLEDGE, as Rockefeller has done, doesn't eliminate the metabolic or psychological conditions that cause a person to become bighearted in the first place.

But if he feels he is backsliding, he can call Altruists Anonymous and they will send over a tightwad to help him get a grip on his checkbook.

Engineering Contract Is Awarded

The Novato City Council last night approved a $10,645 contract with John W. Hill and Associates to do the engineering on the Sutro Avenue project. (Another Novato City Council story, page 1)

The street lies both in the City of Novato and Marin County. The city and county have a joint powers agreement that the city would do the engineering and oversee the contract for the improvements of the street between Novato Boulevard and Center Road.

This is the first phase of the project. No estimate has yet been made on the total cost of the project.

CABLE TV — Approved an $8,000 contract with Wilsey and Ham of Foster City to make a study of cable TV rates in Novato. Liberty Cable TV will pay half the amount. The vote was 4-1 with councilman Fred Ruegg against.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Geoffrey Bywater from the Parks and Recreation Commission as he has gone to work for the Parks and Recreation Department.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Dec. 10 at Grace Lutheran Church.

'Empty' Oil Tank Wasn't Quite

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Officials said today workers thought a 440,000-gallon oil tank was empty when they began cutting it up with gas torches yesterday and it exploded into flames.

No one was injured in the incident.

Fire Chief Harold Redgate said the tank was being demolished when residue at the bottom touched off the blaze. He said the large tank was thought to be empty.

Dr. Simmons Quits Marin Hospital Post

DR. BRADFORD SIMMONS
Navajo assignment

Dr. Bradford Simmons, a member of the Marin Hospital District board since 1972, resigned last night effective Jan. 1 because he is moving to New Mexico to serve as a physician at a Navajo reservation hospital.

Simmons said he will be the only general surgeon at the public health service hospital, which serves a "very remote area."

Simmons, 62, is a longtime Marin County physician. He has been a member of the Marin General Hospital staff since 1952 and is a past president and chief of staff.

He is a graduate of Harvard University, where he played football and was captain of the crew. He received his medical degree from Yale School of Medicine in 1939.

During World War II he served with the Navy Medical Corps as a commander.

On two occasions, Simmons volunteered his medical knowledge in other countries. In 1967 he served at a hospital in Kenya, and in 1972 he volunteered for the Project Hope ship in Brazil.

Photography Plans Shelved

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's wife Margaret, 26, has shelved plans to work as a freelance photojournalist for Chatelaine Magazine. But says she will continue her private photography lessons.

"I've just decided to lie low for awhile," Mrs. Trudeau said yesterday. She gave no reason for her change in plans.

Earlier this month Mrs. Trudeau, the mother of two small sons, said she would submit material to publications as a free-lance photojournalist.

Count Down On Strikes In October

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department said today that 195,000 persons took part in 650 separate strikes during October. The number of strikes was the lowest in nine months.

The 195,000 participants in October strikes was well below the 284,000 in September and even further below the 297,000 involved in October, 1973, the department said.

The 650 strikes in progress in October were 150 fewer than in the previous month and the lowest since February, according to the government statistics.

The coal strike which idled 120,000 persons did not begin until Nov. 12.

Four large strikes — involving 5,000 or more workers — were recorded in October. All of them were settled during the month. The National Airlines strike by the machinists involved 7,100 workers.

The United Auto Workers had strikes against American Motors, 10,000 workers, and General Motors' Delco-Remy Division, 6,800 workers. And the Textile Workers Union of America had a strike involving 8,000 workers against 150 dyeing and finishing plants in five states.

Peacocks Like Their Vegetables

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — What do peacocks like to eat? Several residents of nearby Dundee will tell you they eat squash, cucumbers and cabbage as well as other vegetable delights from their gardens.

The hungry birds that wander around as they please belong to an unidentified resident. Yamhill county deputies are looking for the owner of the dozen or more peacocks to warn him to keep them confined.

Dewar's "White Label" half gallons • $17⁹⁹

Look at it as a wise investment.

When was the last time you heard of a "real opportunity"? Probably not for quite awhile. Here's something that doesn't happen very often. Dewar's "White Label" half gallons for only $17.99 during the holidays.

That's a savings of almost $3.00 over the price of two quarts. You see, we're trying to win over California. (Dewar's "White Label" is already the most popular Scotch in many parts of the country. After all, people know a great authentic Scotch when they taste one.) We want you to try Dewar's now. So, for a limited time, we're offering our economical half gallon at a special price. Pick up several half gallons of Dewar's "White Label" with easy-handling, built-in pourers. It's one investment that's easily liquidated.

Dewar's never varies.

CONFRONTATION — Daniel Davis (left) as Horatio Alger Jr., the American mythmaker, confronts his father (Sydney Walker) in a scene from "Horatio," an American Conservatory Theater production which opened last night at the Geary Theater in San Francisco.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Horatio' A New Low For ACT

By BLAKE A. SAMSON
SAN FRANCISCO — The American Conservatory Theater opened last night an atrocious, directionless, dreadfully slow mishmash called "Horatio" written by Ron Whyte with music by Mel Marvin based on the life and books of Horatio Alger Jr.

The script itself is a puzzle-moment and the direction by James Dunn of the College of Marin's drama department only increases the puzzle. There is never a consistent point of view.

Are we watching a serious biography, a musical satire, a camp vaudeville farce, a nostalgic study of Alger's myth-making belief in the American rags-to-riches syndrome? The loosely strung series of vignettes start off in one direction then switch and switch again.

The plot starts with Alger's birth and continues through life to his death. A serious attempt is made to paint Alger's painful and awkward childhood relationship with his father.

It looks like an attempt at biography, but Horatio dies — revives — dies again — and revives once more before finally kicking the bucket. It is now farce, but without the clipped pace a farce demands.

"HORATIO," a two-act revue by Ron Whyte, with music by Mel Marvin; directed by James Dunn; scenery by Ralph Funicello, costumes by J. Allen Hufnagel; lighting by F. Mitchell Dana; the cast: Horatio Alger Sr. and banker, Sydney Walker; Horatio Alger Jr. and Ragged Dick, Patrick Treadway; Mrs. Alger, Joy Carlin; Catherine, Candace Barrett; Claremont, Raye Birk; O'Connor, Charles Lanyer; Elsie, Fredi Olster; Gladys, Sandra Shotwell; Charlotte, Megan Elizabeth Cole; Bully and John Stockton, Donald Boussom; at the Geary Theater, San Francisco, 8:30 p.m.

"Horatio" is not funny. It was not mildly funny. A few tubercular guffaws and that's it. There is nothing quite as bad as a joke that is contrived.

Director Dunn plays trick after trick to make it funny. Each is last week's tripe reheated, from a man costumed as a savage and prancing across the stage, sporting coconut breasts to Little Bo Peep to big plastic noses to keystone cops. Cliche follows cliche (haven't we seen enough strobe-light nickelodeons?) until the show is as vital as flat beer.

The set looks like the border of a 19th Century political advertisement, swirling banners and flag-carrying eagles. Is it the Great American Music Hall or Tommy's Joint? Hot pastrami, bric-a-brac and a sideshow barker.

Daniel Davis plays Horatio as a naive boy; only one doesn't believe Horatio's innocence for one moment. Davis' attempt to show Alger's repeated nervousness suggests more the need of a bed pan (the knees quake back and forth whenever they are not pressed in) and his speech is a level, high-pitched squeak. He certainly is not sympathetic to the character.

Indeed, the only actors sympathetic to their roles are Sydney Walker as Horatio Alger Sr., Patrick Treadway as Ragged Dick, and the other boys in Alger's stories. Walker is at least an amusing, cantankerous old goat, and Treadway, as well as the boys, has a beguiling way of delivering yesteryear's leftovers from "Laugh-in".

One singular but utterly touching scene does exist, a momentary story told by Alger to a deaf mute. The story is almost poetic and repeated in the boy's sign language, it becomes very beautiful. Unfortunately, the actor playing the boy is not identified in the program.

Marrian Walters and Candace Barrett play two lovely Irish charwomen and Raye Birk plays a mildly amusing, totally mad phrenologist (consulted to tell Horatio's future). The other character roles (Elsie, Fredi Olster; Gladys, Sandra Shotwell, and the bully, Ronald Boussom) all fall short for they display no delight in the clowning they must do.

"Horatio" hit a new low for ACT and by the end, there was not a comfortable seat in the house. Several of the audience sped out before the curtain calls; others were more fortunate. They left during intermission. "Horatio" will continue at the Geary Theater in San Francisco in the ACT repertoire through its winter season.

Cancer Idea May Save Young Legs

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a revolutionary attempt to save the legs of youngsters stricken with bone cancer, a New York medical team has started replacing diseased thighbones with metal ones after shrinking tumors with powerful anticancer drugs.

Dr. Gerald Rosen, pediatric specialist at the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, said yesterday that the novel approach to the disease seen most often in adolescents is highly experimental. But he said six teen-age girls who have undergone the operation have no signs of cancer after periods of up to a year.

Rosen told a national cancer conference that it is far too early to see if the procedure will prevent the recurrence of cancer. He said the most promising treatment now for the form of cancer known as osteogenic sarcoma is amputation followed by treatment with several drugs.

Edward Kennedy, Jr., the son of the Massachusetts senator, was stricken with the disease last year and had the leg amputated. He now is undergoing chemical therapy to combat any cancer cells that may have spread beyond the leg.

Before drugs were used in conjunction with amputation, the five-year survival rate for that form of cancer was only 17 per cent. Rosen said it appears that the recent use of drugs following amputation will increase the survival rate to 75 per cent.

It was the success of the multiple drug therapy that led Dr. Ralph Marcove, acting chief of the bone service at Memorial, to suggest the new technique. It relies heavily on large doses of four drugs to first shrink the bone tumor and then to guard against any remaining cancer cells following bone removal.

The disease bones are replaced with ones made of a steel alloy. But for the procedure to be possible, Rosen said the patient must be fully grown, must have the cancer limited to the bone and must show response to the chemical treatment.

Rosen said eight other patients are in the experimental program.

Philharmonic From Los Angeles To Play

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS
The Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, under the baton of maestro Zubin Mehta, will invade the Bay Area for a Sunday evening concert at the Paramount Theater in Oakland.

The orchestra will perform Beethoven's Symphony No. 5, Wagner's "Overture to Rienzi," and Schoenberg's "Variations for Orchestra."

While the visitors set up their musical stands for the concert, the San Francisco Opera will be closing out its 52nd season with an afternoon performance of Donizetti's "The Daughter of the Regiment" with soprano Beverly Sills in the title role. There will also be a special performance of the opera tomorrow night.

Barry Morell, Metropolitan Opera tenor, will make his San Francisco Opera debut tonight as Pinkerton in Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" with soprano Pilar Lorenzar in the role of Cio Cio San. There will also be a performance of the opera on Saturday night.

Verdi's "Luisa Miller" will have its final performance Friday night and there will also be a final "Don Giovanni" by Mozart on Saturday afternoon.

New Bomber Development Seen In Russia

LONDON (UPI) — The authoritative book "Jane's All the World's Aircraft" reports the Soviet Union is developing a supersonic intercontinental bomber which the book said should make the United States think again about scrapping much of its anti-aircraft defenses.

Jane's said yesterday the bomber has "a potential that may well cause the U.S. Department of Defense to reconsider its budget remark" that all Nike-Hercules surface-to-air missile batteries located in the United States and some fighter interceptor squadrons will be phased out.

In a foreword to the 1974-75 edition, Jane's editor John W.R. Taylor said yesterday the Soviets have significant superiority over the United States in anti-aircraft defenses, but the United States has a big edge in manned intercontinental bombers.

A British Flap Over Navy Flag

BROADSTAIRS, England (UPI) — Who can fly the British navy's traditional white ensign? We can, says St. Peter's church. Oh no you can't, replies the Royal Navy.

The fuss arose when someone told naval officers their white flag was fluttering from St. Peter's stone tower.

By law only the Royal Navy and London's St. Martins-in-the-Field church — the Navy's own parish — are permitted to fly the ensign.

The Rev. John de Sausmaerz, vicar of St. Peter's, says his church, situated in this coastal city 70 miles east of London, served as a signaling station during the Napoleonic wars and has the right to raise the standard on ceremonial occasions.

Crude Oil Stockpiling Suggested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy experts at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology say any attempt to make the United States totally independent of foreign oil supplies in the 1980s would cause consumer prices to skyrocket.

Instead, the MIT Energy Laboratory Policy Group said, the government should build up huge new stockpiles of crude oil that could see the nation through any new embargo applied by the oil producing countries.

The group said a blend of stockpiling and other measures offers the best way to reduce embargo risks and at the same time hold the line on oil prices.

"The U.S. alone among major industrial nations has no provision for stockpiling crude oil beyond normal inventories," the group said in an 89-page report published by the private, nonpartisan American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research.

Discounting the effects of inflation, the report said prices equivalent to $11 to $13 per barrel of oil would be necessary to increase U.S. fossil fuel production enough to satisfy domestic markets without imports in the 1980s.

"This means that ... there would have to be another round of price increases for consumers roughly as great as that experienced in 1973-74," the report warned.

But it said "security can be provided against import disruption by the introduction of radically new import policies," including the creation of large stockpiles "as a hedge against significant or lengthy embargoes."

Chrysler Payroll, Production Will Be Cut After Holiday

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp.'s assembly plant payroll will be slashed in half and output cut by 35 per cent when it begins building cars again after a virtual shutdown between Thanksgiving and Jan. 6.

The firm's six U.S. plants will turn out 3,680 cars a day with 17,200 workers on Jan. 6, compared with 5,680 cars a day with 33,000 workers when 1975-model car production was at its peak in September.

More than 75,000 U.S. auto workers leaving their jobs after today's work shifts won't return after the Thanksgiving holiday on Monday. Another 70,000 workers already are on long-term layoffs that began as far back as last winter.

About 55,000 of the new layoffs will be at Chrysler in addition to 20,000 Chrysler workers already on indefinite layoffs. GM will have almost 54,000 workers off the job Monday. Ford already lists 14,925 on indefinite layoff.

The sharp Chrysler cutback is the company's reaction to sharply slumping sales that saw new car deliveries so far this month fall 37.4 per cent from a year ago and a record inventory of unsold cars that could last more than 120 days.

Chrysler sales in mid-November were off 41.7 per cent compared with an industry drop of 34.7 per cent. Mid-November figures for the industry were the worst since 1960 when the exception of 1970 when a GM strike affected sales.

Unaffected by the drastic slash will be Chrysler's Windsor, Ont., assembly plant, which turns out 1,040 cars a day with 6,400 workers. But 1,700 workers — about 10 per cent of Chrysler's Canadian work force — will be idled indefinitely because they build parts for U.S. plants.

Chrysler will build 12,000 cars in December at the one plant that will operate normally. But even the St. Louis, Mo., that builds Fury, Coronet, Valiant and Dart models, will be reduced to a single shift with 2,100 workers on Jan. 6. That plant employs 4,400 workers today.

Last year, Chrysler built 103,223 cars in December with the record standing at the 156,299 the automaker built in December of 1967.

The sharp cutbacks by Chrysler, and those planned by GM, Ford and American Motors will drop December auto production to about 300,000 cars, meaning the Big Four automakers will turn in their worst production in 12 years. Output is expected to just fall short of 7 million cars this year compared with the record 9.7 million last year.

Postman's Attic Yields 12 Tons Of 'Lost' Mail

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — More than 12 tons of undelivered mail — some of it dating back to 1967 — have been found in a mailman's attic.

Postmaster S.N. DeVito said yesterday the mail was stored in the home of letter carrier Frank Sosienksi.

Postal inspectors charged Sosienksi, 54, with detaining and delaying mail intended for delivery.

DeVito said the mail, mostly advertising material, was in about 1,200 sacks. He said a task force of about six persons would be assigned to deliver the mail and estimated it would take about a month to complete the job.

Reagan Tabs Two Of Three Crimes Biddle For State Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republican Sen. W. Craig Biddle, defeated for re-election Nov. 5, was nominated by Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday to a $40,322-a-year post on the state Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board.

The appointment of the lame-duck Riverside lawmaker, rumored for several weeks, is opposed by organized labor which is working to block his confirmation by the Democratic-controlled Senate.

A Reagan spokesman said if the Senate refused to confirm Biddle, 43, an attorney and legislative veteran, at its organizational session next week, Gov.-elect Edmund Brown Jr. would nominate another candidate.

Biddle first was elected to the Assembly in 1964 and earned the reputation as one of the legislature's experts on air pollution. He was elected to the Senate in 1972 at a special election.

John F. Henning, secretary-treasurer of the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO, who was spearheading the drive to block confirmation of Biddle even before the appointment was announced, described him as "no friend of labor" and a "reactionary."

Warning Is Issued On Bogus Audit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government study concluded today only one-third of the rapes, robberies, aggravated assaults and burglaries that actually occur are reported, mainly because the victims believe nothing can be done.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, a Justice Department agency, said during the first six months of 1973, a survey showed about 16.6 million major crimes, but only 5.3 million victims reported the crimes to police. In addition, only 3.9 million of the police crime reports were relayed to the FBI for use in FBI crime statistics.

The FBI uses police reports to draft its crime statistics, and the FBI statistics have long been relied on as the standard measure of crime level in this country.

The survey was conducted by the LEAA through actual interviews with 125,000 citizens and 15,000 business establishments then projected to the public as a whole.

A major reason for the gap between the numbers of crimes found in the survey and those which show up in FBI reports was that victims do not bother to report crimes to police, said LEAA Administrator Richard Velde.

"By far the most predominant reason was that the individual does not want to be bothered — he feels it is not worth the effort," Velde said.

Another reason was that many law enforcement jurisdictions failed to make voluntary crime reports to the FBI, Velde said.

"The public is turned off by the criminal justice system," Velde said. "It will be a rude awakening to many criminal justice professionals when they find out how poorly they are serving the public."

Larceny was the leading unreported crime, with approximately 11 million found in the LEAA survey compared with only 2.4 million reported to police. The survey estimated burglaries at 3.69 million compared with 1.86 million reports, followed by rape, robbery, aggravated assault and auto theft.

The survey also indicated that black males were more likely to be crime victims than either whites or females, and the young rather than the elderly were more likely to be victims of crimes.

About two-thirds of violent crimes found in the survey involved confrontations between strangers, but homicides usually occur among friends and relatives.

No Protest Is Heard On Classroom Move

The Marin County Board of Education's plan to relocate a portable classroom cleared a hurdle last night when nobody complained about its environmental impact at a public hearing.

The board wishes to move the building from Vallejo School in San Rafael to the Children's Treatment Center at Loma Alta in Lucas Valley. Lack of public objection means the board may file a declaration of negative environmental impact with the county and may go ahead with the project.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

PERSONNEL — Hired Betsy Gast as an instructional aide at Granada School at $3.68 per hour; granted temporary certificates to John Kelly, Diana Kosman, Francine Malone, Donna McGuinn, Barbara Mery and Claudia Weidig while they await their credentials; reclassified the clerk-typist position at West End School to secretary at a monthly pay increase of $58.

COMMISSION — Received the annual report of the personnel commission which noted, among other things, that the commission spent $20,603 in fiscal 1973-74.

POLICY — Held a first reading on its revised interdistrict attendance appeal policy.

GIFT — Accepted a $5 check from Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Meagher in memory of Raymond McEvoy, grandfather of a Marin County student.

APPLICATION — Applied for state funds for a proposed program for orthopedically handicapped students; the board asked for $19,775 annually for two years.

INTERCOUNTY — Approved intercounty attendance agreements permitting Clarence Nelson of Sonoma County to attend school in Marin and Brian Smith of Marin to go to Sonoma.

NYC To Honor Muhammad Ali

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York will observe "Muhammad Ali Day" Monday, Dec. 9, with a series of events honoring the world heavyweight boxing champion.

Mayor Abraham Beame, who announced the special day, said yesterday Ali will be presented the city's Bronze Medallion and will visit the Adolescent Reformatory, a youth offender rehabilitation center.

"Muhammad Ali is one of the world's greatest athletes and this is one of the world's greatest sports towns," Beame said. "I hope as many New Yorkers as possible will turn out to greet this great pro on December 9th."

FOUR YEARS LATER

Child Center Near Reality

By JOAN LISETOR
Four years have passed since a subcommittee of Women on the Move first met to discuss the feasibility of a child care center on the campus at Redwood High School.

The determined group, headed by Redwood counselor Carol Neumeier, has continued to meet monthly. After facing many disappointments the group has finally found a location and is in the process of hiring a director with plans to open on Feb. 1.

A classroom between the home economics room and principal Donald Kreps' office was made available this fall, the first time the high school has had a spare room. Bathroom facilities were installed, the room painted and a door cut through into the senior quad, where the children will play.

THE CENTER will be known as the Redwood Child Development Center, Inc. Between 12 and 18 children aged 3 months to 33 months will be served.

"The center has three concepts," Ms. Neumeier said. "The first is to be a model child development center. Second is to be integrated into the curriculum of a traditional, public high school in order to teach parenting skills to high school students either through direct contact or indirect involvement, and third we want to reach parents in the community."

There is a possibility that Redwood's Adult Education School, which will reopen next year, will offer courses in parenting relating to the center.

DR. WALTER LEE, psychologist for the Tamalpais Union High School District, has also been involved with the center since its inception.

"For business students running the business aspects of the center would be more valuable than taking another business course, and industrial arts students can design things for the building. For a student to do something and see it used is more fun than academic ritual," he said.

OTHER THOUGHTS on involving the students include having home economics students plan and prepare meals, music and drama students perform and psychology students observe the children.

"Over the years we have heard a lot of nice things said about our proposals, but we haven't gotten the money we need," Dr. Lee said.

Many foundations and agencies have been contacted by the committee, but for one reason or another were reluctant to fund.

IN 1972 the school district allotted $1,000 for a feasibility study, and in the spring of this year $7,000 was received from the Vocational Education Act funds allotted to the district. Since the district has a freeze on hiring there was no help coming to pay for a director.

"Once we are opened funds will be available, but there is nothing to help us get started," Dr. Lee explained.

A committee has been set up to select a director by Dec. 2. After that, applications will be available for children. The first priority will go to children whose parents are high school students in Marin. State and federal funds are available for these children through a bill introduced by Marin State Sen. Peter H. Behr. The remaining slots will be filled by another selection committee, which will develop priorities and make the selections on an individual basis, Dr. Lee said.

MUCH VOLUNTEER labor and professional help has gone into the establishing of the center, Ms. Neumeier said. Attorney Verna Mellini has handled legal matters, filing articles of incorporation and papers necessary for the center to have non profit, tax exempt status, so it can accept the necessary donations.

The center will operate on a sliding scale, so scholarship money will be needed. The committee has found the going rate in Marin for all day infant care is approximately $160 per month. Fees will reflect the going rate, Ms. Neumeier said.

The center will offer more than custodial care, Dr. Lee said.

"I BELIEVE very early development is the singularly most important aspect in a child's life," he said. "If you don't put up barriers then it is very difficult to stop the child's development."

He believes in an inverse theory of education, where preschool education is the most important, kindergarten next and so on through the years.

"We started on a much grander scale," he said. "We had a portable center in mind, 40 kids and an $85,000 budget. Now we want to start a center, fend for ourselves and produce quality programs. We'll see where we want to go from there. Today 12 children, maybe tomorrow the world."

AFRICAN VISITORS — Francis Compton (left) leads educators Gbenyonua Yawa Tibu of Ghana and Maria Kasindi Kamm of Tanzania on a tour of the College of Marin. The African women were especially interested in the independent study center and the outreach program.

African Educators Pause Here During Tour Of U.S.

Maria Kasindi Kamm of Tanzania and Gbenyonua Yawa Tibu of Ghana are in Marin as part of a nationwide tour of educational facilities.

The women, both educators in their African nations, spent five weeks at the University of Massachusetts studying the American educational system prior to beginning the tour. The program is sponsored by the American Association of University Women Educational Foundation and the U.S. Department of State.

Miss Tibu, who is married but prefers her maiden name, is the principal of St. Teresa's Teacher Training College in Hohoe, Ghana. She is a graduate of the University of Ghana. Ghana's three universities are for students between the ages of 15 and 24, she explained, one offering teacher training, another technical training and the third arts and sciences.

"I have observed a few aspects of your adult education which I hope to make use of," she said. "A lot that I have seen will help me in evaluating the type of education we have in Ghana, although I will not use everything."

Mrs. Kamm, headmistress of the Weruweru Secondary School in Moshi, Tanzania, received the bachelor of arts degree from St. Mary's College, master of arts degree from Syracuse University and attended Notre Dame University on Fulbright Scholarships. Currently she is a candidate for the Ph.D. degree at Dar-es-Salaam University in the capital city of Tanzania. The educational system in her country is similar to that of Ghana's she said.

Fewer students are now being sent abroad to be educated because their own university covers most subjects, she said.

"In our country education is not for all. It is free but very expensive (to the government), so it is based on merit. We are trying to set up village schools," she said.

Both women were chosen by See AFRICAN, page 12

ON THE AGENDA

League Of Women Voters Sets A Pre-Christmas Plant Sale

A big pre-Christmas plant sale is planned by the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin next Tuesday from 1:30 to 4 p.m. at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere.

The funds raised will assist the League in providing such community services as candidate nights, voter registration and public presentations of ballot issue studies. A one dollar entrance donation is asked.

House plants, succulents, herbs and other plants suitable for decks and patios will be available. Containers include Mexican pots, tile-decorated planter boxes, and hanging baskets. Refreshments will be served.

Grace Wright, who is the proprietor of Grace's Plants from Paradise in Corte Madera, will discuss plant care at 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. for those attending the sale.

Jeanne Zwick and Elva Edger are chairmen; Phyllis Berger, Patsy Chamberlain, Betts Hackney, Stephanie Klein, Ruth Moncrief, Maggi Nicholson and Sylvia Silberstein, committee members.

A HOLIDAY luncheon will be held next Wednesday by the Marin County Christian Women's Club beginning at noon. The luncheon at Hamilton Air Force Reserve Base Officers' Club will include guest speakers and the singing of Christmas carols.

Berkley Compton will present a special feature, "America Is Still the Land of Dreams." Caroling will be led by Linda Moyer of Mill Valley.

Al Hopson, guest speaker, will discuss using the "word of God to provide plausible, practical answers to today's perplexing problems."

Reservations may be made by calling luncheon chairman, Sandy Otanez.

THE SAN RAFAEL Improvement Club will hold its Christmas Philanthropic Tea next Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at the club.

Christmas carols will be sung by members of the club, Rosemarie Arthur, Peggy Diehl, Lillian Murray, Adele Ulman, Ruth Vander Hoogt, Yolanda Godfrey and Roma Avron.

Jean Pitcher, chairman of the tea, will be the pianist.

A PROGRAM OF Christmas carols will be part of the annual Couple's Party planned for Sunday by members of the Alumnae Club of Pi Beta Phi of Marin. The party will begin at 5 p.m. at the home of Nancy Aperton of San Francisco.

Betty Joy and Cathy Coverdale are hostesses of the event.

THE MONTHLY meeting of the Lawyers' Wives of Marin will be held next Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. at the home of Joan Bossio, 875 Flaxberry Lane, San Rafael.

A luncheon of soup and sandwiches will be served and members will compete in games of bridge and dominoes.

THE ANNUAL Christmas Tea of the Social Service Auxiliary will be held next Wednesday beginning at 2 p.m. at the home of Ruth Bricca, 6 Rancheria Road, Kentfield.

Honored will be new members, Jo Mani, Frances O'Brien, Lorraine Garvey, Fran Vogel, and Dianne Bur-

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

It's Time To Liberate Those Men Insecure In Masculinity

DEAR HELEN: Now that we've just about won "women's liberation," it's time we liberated men. Too many of them are still as insecure in their masculinity as little boys. You can spot these scaredies right away: they're always putting down the husbands who work along with their wives at home or child care. They're the ones who proclaim they wouldn't be caught dead in a pink bedroom, and if their small sons show interest in dolls, they get a seizure.

You wouldn't catch them cleaning or cooking; they think they have to discuss ball games (but not with "stupid" women); they clear their throats and spit on public streets; they must drive over speed limit and lay on the horn, especially if the other driver is female.

Let me tell them: a real man can put on a ruffled apron in a pink kitchen and his masculinity will still shine through. He can hold his wife's definitely feminine purse while she's shopping, and never once feel conspicuous. He can read "Dear Helen" in the women's section without pretending he just glanced at it while turning to sports. He can show emotions other than anger, and he isn't afraid to cry. He can change his child's diapers anywhere, anytime — as a sharing father — without embarrassment.

I like the saying, "A real man is strong enough to be gentle."

— ANOTHER HELEN

DEAR HELEN:

So do I! — H.

DEAR HELEN: My younger sister is a brat. She twists my parents around her finger while I, at 25, have always had to strive. She insisted on getting married when she was 16, so they signed for her. Then her husband went into the service.

No apartment house will take my sister because she's "too young" even though she's a married woman. So she's back living with my folks and they don't seem to mind. I had hoped, finally, to get a room by myself, as I live here too.

I tell them she's not their responsibility anymore. They argue she is paying her way; but they're still stuck with her. Please try to convince them for me. — OLDER SISTER

DEAR SISTER: No way! If you want a room of your own, then perhaps you should consider an apartment. At 25, you're a bit more ready for one than is your 16-year-old sister. — H.

DEAR HELEN: My husband has a divorced older sister of whom I'm quite fond. But we have many of the same friends, and they feel they must always invite her when they have us. She feels more comfortable going places with us, so we're getting to be a threesome.

I'd prefer being a twosome at least part of the time. Do you think I would hurt feelings and raise eyebrows if I asked our friends to think of us as separate families — and let my husband know that I'd enjoy a vacation for two — not three — next year? — S-in-L

DEAR S: Hurt feelings? Probably at first. But this independence therapy is necessary if your sister-in-law is ever to build a new life for herself.

Couldn't you find her an escort? He'd solve the problem happily. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Carole Jane Bertram Is Engaged

Carole Jane Bertram of Sea Ranch, formerly of Kentfield, is engaged to be married to Gavin Holley of Stockton, according to an announcement by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bertram of Sea Ranch.

The young people plan to be married March 20, 1975, in Morris Chapel at the University of the Pacific in Stockton.

Miss Bertram is a graduate of Redwood High School in Larkspur and of the University of the Pacific, where she received a bachelor of arts degree in psychology. She also attended the Institute of European Studies in Vienna. She is affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and is currently employed by the Lodi Unified School District in Lodi.

She is the sister of Leanne Bertram Bly, George Bonnie and Sarah Bertram, and the granddaughter of Olga Norman of Tiburon.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Holley of Stockton, and the brother of Dean and Mark Holley. His grandmother is Gladys McKenzie of Stockton.

He is a graduate of California State University at Sacramento, where he was awarded the bachelor of arts degree in social sciences. He is now employed at Sundance Sports in Stockton.

Rainbow Mothers To Hold Boutique

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH MELEYCO
Married at Hamilton Air Force Base

Lawyers Are Married In Hamilton Ceremony

Teresa Richardson of Sacramento was married to Kenneth Meleyco of Stockton in rites at the Hamilton Air Force Base Chapel recently.

The bride is the daughter of Zelta Richardson of Sacramento and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Meleyco of Novato.

Sandy White of Sacramento was honor attendant for the bride. Best man was Michael Meleyco of San Francisco, and Paul Smith of Yucca Valley was an usher.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club. The young couple went on a wedding trip to Hawaii.

The newly married Meleycos will live in Stockton. Both are practicing attorneys and were graduated from McGeorge School of Law in Sacramento. Mrs. Meleyco works in the office of the attorney general in Sacramento, and Meleyco is an assistant district attorney in Stockton.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and California State University at Fresno. He has one sister, Kathy Smith of Yucca Valley, and is the grandson of Anna Meleyco of Redwood City.

The bride has one brother, Michael Richardson of Sacramento.

PARENT AND CHILD

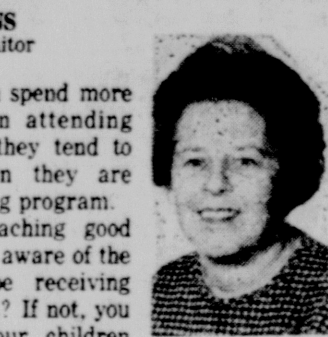

Television As Counter-Education

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

It is a fact that many children spend more time watching television than attending school. It also is a fact that they tend to watch commercials even when they are disinterested in the accompanying program.

If you are serious about teaching good morals to your children, are you aware of the counter-education they may be receiving from some of these commercials? If not, you might monitor the TV ads your children watch. Keep score of references to sex, suggestions of promiscuity, and other appeals to sensualism.

FOR EXAMPLE, one cigar ad shows a woman fawning over a man who is smoking a cigar. The text is provocative and suggestive, as is the "body language." An advertisement for a blouse shows a seductive-looking woman while the accompany text states that the blouse makes her feel "so sensual." (It's quite an ordinary blouse she's displaying.)

The "double entendre" abounds. While you might not think young children get the smut, you'll discover that the gestures, music, and pictures all reinforce the double meaning.

It doesn't seem to matter what the product is — a hair spray, a type of blouse, a furniture polish — too many ads on television sell sensuality.

COMPETITION among brands which are nearly equal in service and quality must trade on something else in order to get buyer attention. And you'll find, if you conduct your survey carefully, that an enormous number of advertising campaigns are trying to sell a questionable life-style.

Do you teach your children not to covet? Do you want your children not to commit adultery? Are you showing your children how not to bear false witness? Do you want other children to learn these lessons, too?

If the answer is "yes," I hope you will note all instances of questionable morals, of sensuality, even bestiality, that you will study what the message is attempting to sell, and that you will realize how the pictures, music, and text all reinforce the "message." Then act accordingly.

It is not enough just to keep your own children from watching smutty commercials. You probably would like to stop these commercials from being watched by any children. The way to do that is to write to the president of the company whose product is being advertised.

MANY YEARS ago, parents across the United States became very disturbed about movies being shown to children. They forced adoption of a rating system which, while it has its faults, at least gives parents some indication of which movies they might not want their children to watch.

Children's television programs have come under the same kind of scrutiny. There is little smut and sensuality in any of the programs regularly shown on television and clearly aimed at the child audience. But it would appear that the same code does not apply to commercials aimed at the 20-30 age group.

Yet, these commercials appear during the hours children are watching television. This is especially true of the hours older teen-agers watch television.

Clearing the air of these commercials could not only do a great deal for children, but for adults, too. We all deserve freedom from smut and sensuality. ©1974 The Christian Science Publishing Society

Fire District Will Ask For Increase In Taxes

The Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District will ask voters on March 4 to approve a property tax rate increase for next year which exceeds the limits set by state law, the district board decided last night.

Fire Chief Carl O. Heynen said the tax override is needed because of inflation and because of new federal laws which will shorten firemen's working hours.

He said the board has not decided yet how much of an increase to ask for but thought it would be about 18 cents per $100 assessed valuation. This year's tax rate was 77.5 cents per $100.

District firemen now work about 63.5 hours a week, Heynen said. As of Jan. 1, new federal regulations require that this work week be cut back to 60 hours. This will mean adding two more men to the present force of 15. But he said higher costs have played the biggest part in the problem.

Only two-thirds of this year's budget of $301,385 is being funded by property taxes, he said, and the board will have to cover the rest of its spending out of reserves. At the beginning of this fiscal year, reserves totalled about $100,000. By the end, there will only be about $40,000 left, he said.

Verdict On Nixon Exam Due Friday

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Not even Richard Nixon will know the verdict of the Watergate court's medical examiners until the doctors report their unanimous conclusion to federal court Judge John Sirica Friday.

The three distinguished physicians flew back to Washington yesterday after examining the 61-year-old former president at his estate in San Clemente to determine whether he is too sick to testify at the Watergate cover-up trial.

"The conclusion was absolutely unanimous," said Dr. Richard Starr Ross of John Hopkins University. But the doctors refused to say what the conclusion was.

Sirica, who ordered the examination, said at the Watergate cover-up trial in Washington he "couldn't see any reason" why the medical report could not be submitted to him today and made public sooner than Friday.

Both James F. Nearl, chief prosecutor at the trial, and attorney William S. Frates, whose client John D. Ehrlichman has subpoenaed Nixon, urged Sirica to obtain the report as quickly as possible.

'Welfare Queen' Scheduled For Arraignment

CHICAGO (UPI) — A woman suspected of bilking the Illinois public aid system of at least $150,000 in the past 12 months was to be arraigned today on 19 counts of welfare fraud.

"Welfare Queen" Lynda Taylor, who allegedly can turn from black to Latino to white with the change of a wig, was to appear before Cook County Circuit Court Judge Joseph A. Powers.

Mrs. Taylor is charged with using a maze of aliases, addresses, telephone numbers, deceased husbands and even children — presumably "born" after a hysterectomy — to bilk the public aid system.

Former state Public Aid Director Joel Edelman said hers may prove to be "the most massive case of welfare fraud ever perpetrated in the 50 states."

"Our thought was that rather than wait until Friday, it would be to the advantage, we think, of everyone to have it this afternoon," Neal told Sirica.

The head of the team, Dr. Charles A. Hufnagel of Georgetown University Hospital, said they were under strict orders from the judge not to discuss their findings with anyone.

Not even Nixon was told what their conclusion was, Hufnagel said.

The report will be "specific, brief and to the point," Hufnagel said, adding that he expects the judge "will consider the report along with many other factors" in ruling whether Nixon must testify at the trial of five of his former aides for the Watergate cover-up.

Hufnagel told an airport news conference the physicians spent about an hour with Nixon at his San Clemente estate Monday afternoon, enough time to conduct what they considered an adequate examination.

He indicated the former president was cooperative, as a Nixon spokesman had said earlier he would be.

A U.S. marshal drove the doctors 60 miles south to Nixon's oceanside estate after they spent more than four hours during the morning reviewing Nixon's medical records at Long Beach Memorial Hospital, where he underwent surgery four weeks ago.

Sirica appointed the medical team to conduct an independent examination of Nixon when Nixon's own doctors reported the former president was too ill to respond to subpoenas to testify.

Nixon's doctors said that his health would be endangered by the stress of testimony in any form, even by written deposition or a videotaped interview, for at least two to three months.

Nixon's doctors said Nixon's blood pressure was so sensitive that it shoots up dangerously under the most minor stress, and there was worry the court-ordered examination itself would cause such a reaction.

The examiners had said they would cut short the examination if it appeared to be aggravating Nixon's condition, but Hufnagel said later no such reaction was evident.

Suspect In Shooting Arraigned

A Petaluma man, arrested after a shooting last weekend, was arraigned yesterday on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

Donald Lee Teach, 34, of 1168 Baywood Drive, appeared before Sonoma Municipal Court Judge Alexander J. McMahon, who reduced his bail from $25,000 to $10,000.

Teach is charged with the Friday night shooting of Keith Wickenhofer, 41, of 1024 Aspen Way, who is undergoing treatment for two chest wounds at Pacific Medical Center in San Francisco.

Petaluma police, who found the wounded man in an east Petaluma bar late Friday, said today they are unsure where the shooting took place because of differing accounts by those involved.

However, they said, they suspect it occurred less than a mile east of town on Casa Grande Road, where they believe an argument and fight took place between the two men. The fight was apparently witnessed by Wickenhofer's wife, who later drove her husband to the bar and summoned police.

Teach was arrested at home early Saturday.

He was scheduled for a hearing in the City of Sonoma today to determine whether he should be released on his own recognizance.

Teach, who remains confined in Sonoma County Jail, is represented by a public defender.

Nudes Arrested On Venice Beach

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two naked sunbathers were arrested on Venice Beach yesterday by police who announced a get-tough policy to enforce the city's new antinudity ordinance.

Officers gave another 38 naked bathers warnings to put their clothes on, as police have been doing since the law was passed three months ago to cope with increasing nudity on city beaches.

But they said those would be the last warnings, and henceforth nudists will be arrested on sight.

The temperature rose to 83 in Los Angeles yesterday.

'Death Row Jeff' Sues Prison System

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Quentin Prison inmate who helped organize the Symbionese Liberation Army is suing the state Department of Corrections, charging he was kept naked in a cell and gassed into unconsciousness.

Clifford (Death Row Jeff) Jefferson, 48, made the accusation in a habeas corpus petition filed in U.S. District Court.

In May Jefferson appealed to the SLA to release newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst who the terrorist organization kidnapped in February from her Berkeley apartment. He addressed his plea to "Cin," the leader of the SLA and a former prison inmate.

Jefferson was recently transferred from the California Medical Facility at Vacaville to San Quentin after allegedly threatening other prisoners with a broom handle.

His attorney, Vincent Hallinan, told the court that his client was "confined naked in a cell about eight feet by six feet in extent, with no facilities except a hole in the floor as a latrine; the floor of said cell is uncovered concrete; there is no provision for exercise, recreation or communication with other prisoners."

Hallinan also said correctional officers "put something over his faced and pumped gas underneath it, and he passed out, and stayed unconscious for several hours."

Prison information officer William D. Nyberg said today that Jefferson had not been kept naked in a cell and that no gas had been used on the inmate. He added further that "no gas has been used in the Adjustment Center since December 1973."

He did say, though, that Jefferson was placed in the so-called strip cell on the first floor of the Adjustment Center when he arrived at the prison Nov. 4 because it was the only cell available.

Jefferson then was moved to a regular cell upstairs on Nov. 8, "but he didn't like it and said he wanted to be on the first floor," Nyberg said. When told the strip cell was the only empty one on the first floor, Jefferson said "that was all right with him and so we moved him back there Nov. 16."

Miss World Is Resigning

LONDON (UPI) — Helen Morgan of Wales, the first unmarried mother to win the title of Miss World, said today she was resigning the honor because she did not want to tarnish her tinsel crown in a forthcoming divorce suit.

Organizers of the beauty conference offered the title to Miss South Africa who said she would consider it.

The Welsh brunette had said yesterday she was bowing out because she feared she would be named the other woman in a pending divorce suit.

Mitchell Holds Tight To Denials

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, under the sharpest and most caustic questioning of the 42-day conspiracy trial, today steadfastly denied any involvement in the Watergate break-in or cover-up.

Mitchell, the first of the five defendants to testify, insisted he never concealed high-level involvement in Watergate. But he said he also never volunteered any information in order not to jeopardize the 1972 re-election of Richard M. Nixon as president.

Chief trial prosecutor James F. Neal failed to shake Mitchell's story during a number of heated exchanges, some of them so bitter that U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica interrupted to admonish the two men.

"I have an urge, Mr. Neal, to get to the truth," Mitchell said sarcastically at one point.

"Your urge to get to the truth did not include telling the agents what we have been going over," Neal said, referring an FBI interview of Mitchell just two weeks after the June 17, 1972, Watergate break-in.

Mitchell, then Nixon's campaign manager, said two FBI agents came to his office "almost scared to death," asked him a couple of questions and left. He said he did not volunteer information to them "for obvious reasons."

Neal: "What 'obvious' reasons?"

Mitchell: "The re-election of the President of the United States."

Neal: "So you concealed the truth?"

Mitchell: "I did not conceal it. I responded to their questions."

Mitchell said that a meeting of campaign aides held in his apartment three days after the break-in was "totally a meeting to cover the public relations aspects of it."

"Cover or cover up?" Neal asked.

"To cover various aspects of it," Mitchell said, emphasizing the word "cover."

Mitchell denied that his deputy campaign director, Jeb Stuart Magruder, told him in the summer of 1972 that he was going to commit perjury in testimony to a grand jury investigating Watergate. He said Magruder did not use the term perjury, but instead "laid out what his testimony was going to be."

Neal: "You knew it to be false?"

Mitchell: "I had some suspicions that it was false."

Neal: "This boy Magruder, this nonlawyer, 30 to 33 years of age, and you, a Wall Street lawyer and former attorney general..."

Mitchell, interrupting: "I think some of your facts are wrong, Mr. Neal. He is much older than he looks."

At one point Neal told Mitchell, "If you'll just answer my questions then we can move along."

"Mr. Neal," Mitchell replied, "we'll answer your questions my way and then we'll go on."

"Let's not argue," Sirica said.

Mitchell, Richard M. Nixon's former campaign manager and the first of the five defendants to take the stand, was asked specifically by Neal about three meetings in early 1972 in which campaign aide G. Gordon Liddy presented him with the intelligence-gathering plans that eventually led to Watergate.

Neal: "You say you turned it (the plan) off. Isn't it a fact you turned it off because you didn't like the price tag?"

Mitchell: "That's not correct."

Neal: "Did you fire Mr. Liddy?"

Mitchell: "He wasn't working for me."

Neal: "Did you suggest that (deputy campaign director Jeb Stuart) Magruder fire Liddy ... this one-man crime wave?"

Mitchell: "No, I don't believe so."

Ethiopians Said Ready To Execute Haile Selassie

BEIRUT (UPI) — Ethiopia's military rulers have sentenced deposed Emperor Haile Selassie to death and he may be executed at any moment, the newspaper An Nahar reported today.

An Nahar quoted "Western diplomatic sources in Beirut" as saying the ousted emperor was taken from Addis Ababa to a town 35 miles from the capital in preparation for execution.

The State Department said in Washington it had no information on the Selassie report but that it was urgently trying to get in touch with the U.S. Embassy in Addis Ababa.

The report followed the week-end executions of 60 former Ethiopian officials for "putting their own personalities above the general welfare of the state and grossly abusing authority."

The ruling Military Advisory Council also announced plans Sunday to court-martial another 140 former Ethiopian leaders being held on corruption charges.

The Beirut newspaper said Gen. Aman Andom, former leader of the 120-man council, died in a shootout Saturday when he objected to the execution of the deposed emperor.

The council had announced Andom was among 60 persons executed Saturday but revised the report Tuesday to say he was killed resisting arrest.

I'm thankful for the turkey. I like the turkey very much. I like riding horses. I like Thanksgiving Day most of all because it's close to Christmas.

TURKEY DAY — Kindergartner Jasmine Roberts is thankful for Thanksgiving mainly because it is the harbinger of Christmas, but many of her little classmates mentioned they were thankful for a brother or sister who's "been nice to me." Such simple thoughts yesterday mingled with visions of the First Thanksgiving and Indians and Pilgrims in a discussion of tomorrow's holiday at San Pedro School in San Rafael.

Oil Millions May Finance Moslem Center In Marin

By PAUL LIBERATORE

An Iranian religious leader is proposing a Moslem religious and social service center in Marin to be financed by Arab oil millions.

Dr. S. Mehdi Khorasani said several pieces of hilltop property are being considered in Southern Marin and the San Rafael area for the estimated $3 to $5 million facility.

Khorasani, formerly the head of the Shia Islamic Society in London for 14 years, said the center would provide religious and moral training and social services primarily for the 6,000 Iranian students living in the Bay Area.

It would include a mosque, hostel, school, recreation facilities, offices and possibly a cemetery and would require "a large piece of property," preferably in Marin because of the county's climate and natural beauty.

The 49-year-old religious leader, who wears a black turban signifying his direct descentance from the prophet Muhammad, has been coordinating the project for the past four months from a $65,000 house he bought on a hillside in Tamaipas Valley.

S. MEHDI KHORASANI Plans mosque in Marin

Although he has several parcels of property in mind, he declined specifics for fear of affecting the price.

Money, however, does not appear to be of primary concern. "It is a fact that we have a surplus of oil," he said. "I am not saying that is good or bad but the page in history has now been turned to the Middle East.

There is, for example, uncountable wealth in Kuwait. We have, thanks to God, the financial ability."

Financing has been promised by the Shah of Iran and by wealthy oil men in Kuwait and other oil rich countries along the Persian Gulf, Khorasani said. He will be leaving Sunday for the Middle East to arrange financial matters.

The soft-spoken Khorasani is from the Iranian province of Khorasan and received his doctorate in Islamic theology at Najef, a holy city in Iraq.

He considers himself "a liberal teacher" and has worked primarily with young people and students in Iran and England.

There is a $12 million-dollar Islamic center in New York and similar centers in Detroit and Washington, D.C. Other than those, there are few mosques in this country to serve the between 15,000 and 20,000 Iranian students in the U.S., he noted.

Khorasani said he plans to be back in Marin within a month with more definite plans to announce then. He has not yet discussed the idea with local government officials.

LOURDES TRAVERSO Pilgrim girl

PAUL GIBERT First Thanksgiving

ERIC LONG Little Indian

Thanksgiving Seen Differently By Students In Kindergarten

By MARY LEYDECKER

"A Pilgrim is a man who travels a long, long way. He came from England because he had to have some land."

This happened about 3,000 years ago.

"It was not in San Rafael but a long ways from here."

"The Pilgrims met some Indians, who were sometimes fighting, but at the first Thanksgiving they were thankful because they had some friends."

"There was a bird turkey and some people came to visit."

"The Indians helped the Pilgrims by making carpets and bowls of clay and teaching them to plant corn."

"Where did this all happen?" "In America. I know because my friend told me so."

This may not be the version of the First Thanksgiving you remember but it's the way the kindergartners at San Pedro

School in San Rafael see it. At least if all the views expressed yesterday in their afternoon "magic circle" were put together.

Thoughts of Pilgrims and Indians mingled, too, with the here-and-now situation of Thanksgiving coming up tomorrow and the plans and thanks of the 5-year-olds.

Todd allowed "thankful" means "to be thankful for God."

"I'm thankful for the turkey," said Drew, who added they don't have turkey very often at his house.

"We have turkey every two weeks," chimed in a young man who preferred not to follow the rule of waiting for the speaker to finish.

Matthew said he was thankful for "my sister being nice to me," and Evan appreciated "my rabbit and my mom and my dad."

But Vicki, a practical soul, was thankful "for the money and the food."

And what are the kindergartners going to do tomorrow?

Aaron is "going to my grandma's house in Pasadena," riding "all the way" in a car. Pasadena "is a couple of miles" from San Rafael.

At Michael's house, some friends will be coming "and they are going to stay overnight for three days."

And Eric plans to "go to the farm and eat up in the hills."

Not only did the kindergartners tell of their plans, they drew pictures, too.

Then "teacher" wrote their sentiments above the drawings as they were dictated to her.

A child of the suburbs, Michael's picture said, "I'm thankful for my friends and my family and my pool."

But Sam, a somewhat world-weary 5-year-old, merely concluded, "I'm thankful for the things I've done so far."

County Health Officer Carolyn Albrecht said today she still doesn't know the source of a gastrointestinal sickness that has affected a number of persons in the Sausalito area recently.

"The Sausalito situation seems to have abated," she said, and few new cases had been reported from the area. But she added that one physician has reported some cases from Central and North Marin. "It may be moving north along Highway 101," she said.

Dr. Albrecht said that 26 of the questionnaires sent out by the health department to determine the cause of the illness have been returned. She said that after more forms are returned, probably by the end of next week, the health department and state health officials will assess the information.

Fired Patrolman To Get Hearing

An appeal by a man fired from the Petaluma Police Force will be heard at 1 p.m. Dec. 6 at City Hall, the city personnel board decided yesterday.

Harold M. Hutchinson, a patrolman, was dismissed because he wrecked a police car and for other, unspecified reasons, according to asst. city Mgr. David Breninger.

Questionnaires are available at the city hall and from pharmacies and physicians in Sausalito and the County Health Department.

Sausalito officials are working with the health department to trace the source of the illness.

Kissinger Closets With Chinese Chiefs

PEKING (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger huddled with Chinese leaders again today for his fourth and fifth round of talks, described by both sides as "very friendly."

Kissinger did not talk publicly about what was being discussed. Neither did the Chinese.

Dear Customers,

My first thought about using this space was to fill it with special offers to encourage your trade!

Then I remembered an experience of my own, when I visited a store to take advantage of a $7.00 bargain. I left after paying a $40.00 bill with the feeling I had been taken advantage of.

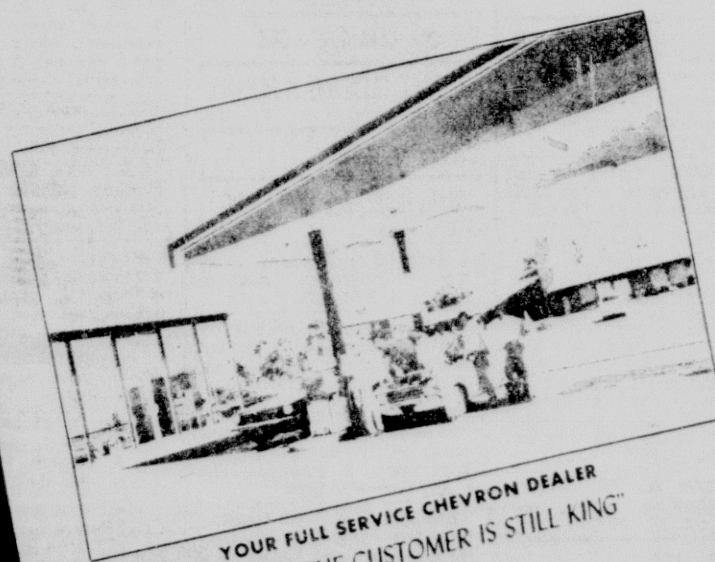

So instead of "Specials", I offer you fair prices on all my merchandise and labor. I stand behind everything I sell, and will not offer you anything you don't need. Plus I won't charge you for anything I didn't do.

Don't you agree that my pledge is as good a reason to do business with me, as the offer of a handful of "Specials" especially in these times?

I hope to be able to help you one of these days when you need an oil change or a lube job. I can also handle major repairs on almost all imported and domestic cars. If I can't do the job, I'll honestly tell you so.

Sincerely,

Herbert Benin

WEATHER FRONT

Considerable high cloudiness over Oregon and Washington is shown in this satellite photo from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. Some showers, associated with a frontal system off the West Coast, are seen in the cloudiness off the coast of Washington. Low clouds and fog are visible in part of the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys.

Burns Says Ford's Energy Plan Will Prove Inadequate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board said today President Ford's reliance on voluntary conservation is bound to prove inadequate and called for imposition of heavier taxes to discourage U.S. consumption of oil.

Testifying before the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, Burns said the United States has been "lecturing the rest of the world" — while wasting time with voluntary appeals to conserve energy.

He called for consideration of "a sizeable tax on gasoline, or on imported oil, or on automobiles according to their weight or horsepower."

Ford categorically has rejected any gasoline tax increase despite support for it as a conservation measure by Burns, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton.

During his campaigning before the November election, Ford said there would be no gasoline tax increase so long as he is in the White House.

Burns said Great Britain, Italy, Japan, France, Germany and other industrial nations all have increased their gasoline taxes — while the United States, which consumes 30 per cent of the world's oil, has waited to see if volunteerism would work.

"I hope the President does not waste much time if his voluntary program proves inadequate, as I think it will," Burns said.

Speaking in somber tones, Burns said there can be no solution to the problems facing the world other than a reduction of prices charged by oil-producing nations.

"If the price of oil remains at anything like its present level ... there will be a massive redistribution of economic and political power among the countries of the world," he said. "This of itself carries dangers for our country's future."

So far, he said, proposed solutions have been temporary and inadequate.

Yesterday, Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton, the President's top energy adviser, told a Senate panel that if the United States wants to participate in an international energy program, a large national stockpile of energy and new legislation would be required.

He said Ford prefers standby emergency authorities rather than mandatory conservation measures.

Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill, who is leaving his job because he did not see eye-to-eye with Ford and Morton on mandatory conservation, told the committee emergency authority should include allocation of petroleum, regulation of store hours, closing service stations on certain days and regulation of commercial lighting.

Sen. Floyd K. Haskell, D-Colo., said, "We should have mandatory conservation measures, very shortly."

Morton said he agreed consumption should come down, but Ford wants to try persuasion first.

Energy experts at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology said in a report yesterday the United States should develop huge stockpiles of crude oil to see the nation through any new oil embargo. The report was published by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research.

A report by the Public Interest Economic Center, made as part of a Ford Foundation energy study, recommended that rates the public pays for electricity vary during each day, being highest during hours of high demand.

Worried Frenchmen Win Economic Pledge

PARIS (UPI) — President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, beset by plunging popularity, has promised worried Frenchmen to do "all that is necessary" to bring inflation and unemployment under control.

Giscard d'Estaing, a former finance minister, said he doubts France's serious economic troubles would develop into "great crises or great depressions."

"I will tell you this — the government will do all that is necessary on time to protect you from unemployment," he said last night in a nationwide television address. "It has the will and it has the means."

Seated before a glowing fireplace in his Elysee Palace office, he said, "We must first of all finish as quickly as possible with inflation."

The president's slow, measured tones — apparently aimed at reassuring Frenchmen fearful of mass joblessness — came at a time of increasing economic woes and decreasing support for Giscard d'Estaing.

The newspaper Le Monde, considered the nation's most intellectual newspaper, said in a front-page article yesterday that the president often disappears for weekends or evenings without telling his aides where he is going.

The newspaper said Giscard d'Estaing leaves only a sealed envelope to be opened in case of war of other emergencies.

Le Monde referred to "rumors on the private life" of the president and said he once spent the weekend in the Grand Trianon Palace at Versailles and another time turned up at a country chateau owned by his wife's family.

The newspaper criticism followed articles in the weekly satirical newspaper Le Canard Enchaîné that the president is busier with his private life than with the affairs of state.

A recent public opinion poll indicated a sharp drop in confidence in the president and severe pessimism about the future.

Only 42 per cent of the Frenchmen surveyed thought Giscard d'Estaing was capable of dealing with France's problems compared to 54 per cent in September.

And 77 per cent felt the economy would get worse, topping a 76 per cent figure last March when oil shortages, currency woes and the terminal illness of the late President Georges Pompidou troubled Frenchmen.

Giscard d'Estaing also promised "unprecedented measures" to aid France's stricken automobile industry. Earlier, Citroën, the nation's second-largest car maker, laid off 1,400 workers and retired 1,300 more. Inflation, meanwhile, has been running at an officially estimated 15 per cent a year in France and the unemployment figure hit 650,000 this month, the highest level since World War II.

In addition, the economy has been rocked by increasing business failures, growing labor unrest and a $400 million dollar trade deficit last month.

"We are not in a situation of great crises or great depressions where a massive production decline could be feared," Giscard d'Estaing said despite the gloomy economic situation.

Computer Tycoon Settles Debt To AT&T For $8,500

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jerry Schneider, an electronics student who became a teen-age tycoon by tricking the telephone company's computer into giving him a fortune in communications equipment, settled his debt yesterday — for less than $8,500.

Schneider, 23, agreed to pay the Pacific Telephone Co. $141.50 a month for five years.

The company accepted the offer to settle a suit over $250,000 worth of telecommunications equipment that Schneider admits he "ripped off" by clever manipulation of a push-button phone.

Superior Court Judge Ernest J. Zack approved the settlement just as the company's civil suit against Schneider was about to go to trial.

By the age of 19, Schneider was president of his own thriving electronics equipment business, Creative Systems Enterprises.

The creative part was that the equipment he sold belonged to the telephone company. By using discarded data material and his knowledge of computers, Schneider was able to use a push button phone to key himself into the telephone company's computer, which handles inventory and supply orders for its widely scattered operations.

Schneider would put in an order for equipment, instructing the computer to have it delivered to the loading dock of a remote telephone company installation between midnight and 2 a.m. His trucks picked up the equipment before the telephone company employees arrived in the morning, and Schneider worked his knowledge of the computer, and the invoices, to destroy all traces that the shipment had been made.

He once had a $25,000 switchboard delivered to a manhole cover at 2 a.m., he said.

At one point, investigators figured he had gotten away with $1 million worth of equipment, but the suit demanded compensation for only a quarter that amount.

Schneider was caught only because he was reported by one of his employees, disgruntled over Schneider's refusal to give him a raise.

Schneider is now a consultant on computer crime to Braden Systems Institute of Arlington, V. He lectures to seminars of business executives, teaching them methods to prevent sophisticated crooks from doing to them what he did to the telephone company.

Schneider served 60 days in jail for grand theft and his three years probation will be up next July.

He said he expects no trouble in meeting the $141.50 monthly restitution payment, since his income as a computer crime consultant is headed toward $100,000 a year.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Drinker Is Surprised To Find Pancreas Damaged By Alcohol

A.P. from Hartford, Conn., writes: "Like most people, I thought it was the liver that took a beating from heavy drinking. Since I've always been a social drinker, you can imagine my surprise when the doctor told me I had pancreatitis. And if I continued my custom of a small nightly bottle of wine and a couple of highballs, I could anticipate problems. Obviously, I'm in no position to ignore his advice. My last attacks nearly wiped me out. Does alcohol play an important role in the development of pancreatitis?"

The pancreas, an elongated gland just beneath the stomach, manufactures insulin, an important factor in the metabolism of sugars. It also secretes enzymes into the intestine to facilitate the digestion of fats and starches.

ALTHOUGH PANCREATITIS is most commonly associated with alcoholism, gall bladder trouble, peptic ulcer and injury, it also develops in nondrinkers and occasionally is a complication of pregnancy.

An inflamed pancreas can cause little or no distress or severe abdominal pain, shock and death. The acute attack usually begins abruptly with severe, steady pain in the pit of the stomach that often radiates to the back. Some relief is obtained by sitting and leaning forward.

As a rule, the victim is nauseated, vomiting, sweating profusely and suffering from abdominal tenderness, prostration and anxiety, all symptoms that mimic other diseases. An elevated blood test (amylase) confirms the diagnosis. Severe attacks require hospitalization and long periods of convalescence. Unfortunately, recurrences are common.

AN ACUTE attack may result in chronic pancreatitis. However, the condition may develop gradually in heavy drinkers or those who have gall bladder infections.

Involvement of certain cells can lead to diabetes or steatorrhea. The latter is a diarrheal and gaseous disorder in which fats are not digested.

Pancreatic supplements help in some cases; others respond to surgery.

If I were you, I would follow my doctor's advice, unless you are a glutton for punishment.

X-RAYS, CANCER

E. J. writes: Can a person die as a result of having had too

REPLY

X-ray machines used for diagnostic purposes are much weaker than the devices used for treating cancer. Thus, it would take a lot of X-rays to endanger the person. Radiologists (physicians who specialize in X-rays) are exposed constantly and must take certain precautions to protect themselves. Yet, they are said to have a higher incidence of leukemia than other physicians. Many pioneers in the field of X-ray developed cancer because they failed to take these certain precautions, many of which were unknown at the time.

CATARACTS

G.G. writes: I just celebrated my 64th birthday and am beginning to develop cataracts. Is this due to a vitamin deficiency?

REPLY

No, it is just part of the aging process.

ICE ADDICT

Mrs. D. writes: I'm an ice muncher (please don't ask me why). Several friends have told me that if I continue, I will reactivate my dormant, duodenal ulcer. What do you think?

REPLY

I doubt whether chewing on ice will reactivate your ulcer. The same nervous tension that caused your ulcer may be responsible for your becoming an ice cruncher.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Airliner Missed By Korean Guns

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean anti-aircraft batteries opened fire at a Korean Airlines 707 jetliner today after it inadvertently strayed into Seoul's restricted air space but the Defense Ministry said the plane was not hit.

The spokesman said anti-aircraft batteries around Seoul fired scores of shots at the plane. Dense fog shrouded the capital at the time.

Airline officials said the plane, flight 005 from Los Angeles, carried 105 passengers.

The plane, unable to land at Kimpo Airport because of the fog, landed in Fukuoka, Japan, according to the airline.

KQED Talks Scheduled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Striking newsmen and the management of KQED television have agreed to discuss the issue of job security, the major block to settling the 15-week walkout.

Members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians Local 41 voted last week to accept binding arbitration of issues in order to settle the strike, the first in the 21-year history of the public broadcast station.

Management had agreed to arbitration of all issues except the demands for job security guarantees.

The union's strike committee has voted to reject arbitration until the job security demand was settled.

The 60 KQED employees who went on strike Sept. 2 include newsmen, reporters, engineers and production assistants.

Jack Crowley, president of the San Francisco Labor Council, AFL-CIO, will act as mediator tomorrow.

Sabotage Spreads In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — A wave of sabotage which has crippled Puerto Rico's water service today spread to the electric service and police were put on a state of alert. Authorities blamed striking utility workers for the acts of destruction.

High powered bombs today damaged power substations in metropolitan San Juan, police reported, but there were no immediate reports of power outages.

The damage to the electric facilities came as some sections of the metropolitan area of 800,000 persons remained without water for the second day.

The water service, which was cut in the entire metropolitan area late Monday night, was restored early today in some sectors, but pressure was so low that the higher parts of the city were still dry.

Emergency water supplies were being delivered in tank trucks, but at least one hospital reported it had received no deliveries and had to cancel all operations and release some patients.

The water service breakdown occurred when two utility poles carrying power lines feeding the pumps at the island's principal reservoir were cut down, breaking the lines.

The mayor of Trujillo Alto, where the main reservoir is located, called on the governor yesterday to mobilize the National Guard to protect the water service. So far the governor has given no indication he was considering such action.

Police leaves were canceled and additional guards were placed at the major water facilities.

The island Health Department urged all residents to boil drinking water because of the possibility of contamination.

The government Aqueducts and Sewers Authority, which operates the water service, has reported almost daily acts of sabotage against the system since the authority's 3,000-member independent union went on strike a month ago.

Last Thursday, water service to much of the metropolitan San Juan area was interrupted for about half a day when bombs severed a major water main and damaged a filtering station.

A number of arrests have been made in island cities in connection with acts of sabotage.

Fire department and Civil Defense tank trucks delivered emergency water supplies to some parts of the city yesterday, including hospitals and the governor's mansion.

Major hotels, large apartment buildings and the principal Medical Center were operating on reserve tanks.

'Little Giant' A Heartbeat Away

WASHINGTON (AP) — Day after day since the evening of Aug. 8, a team of neatly dressed Secret Service agents has been following Carl Albert as he moves through the routine of the Speaker of the House.

From his apartment in a high-rise complex in Arlington, Va., to his suite in the Rayburn House Office Building. From the Rayburn building to his offices on the second floor of the Capitol. From the Capitol offices down one floor in the elevator, through the revolving doors, to the waiting limousine. From the limousine to, perhaps, a reception or some other Capitol Hill social function and, eventually, back across the Potomac River to his home. The agents are constantly in his shadow.

One of these days — the day the nation has a new vice president — the agents won't be there anymore. Carl Bert Albert will no longer be one heartbeat away from the presidency.

As Speaker of the House, Albert has been first in line for the presidency since Richard M. Nixon left the White House and Gerald F. Ford entered it, just as he was during the 58 days between Spiro Agnew's resignation and Ford's swearing in as vice president.

With Ford out of the country, as he was for one week on his Far East journey and for a one-day trip to Mexico, Albert has been the top official in the United States.

The unique position, which he describes as "one of the spare tires of the presidency," is a bit easier now than it was one year ago.

That burden last year was increased because he President's own hold on the office was becoming tenuous.

"I realized that if I did anything that gave any impression that I was trying, through the impeachment process and the resignation process to veto an election, it would cause a major and perhaps permanent division in this country," Albert said in a speech at Oklahoma State University.

"I have had no problem with my conscience and I have come through the experience feeling that I could have done no better," he said.

Sitting at his desk, Albert discussed his new, but temporary, job as President Ford's understudy.

"I don't feel like some shadow of gloom is hanging over me," said the man known as the "little giant" in the House because of his 5-foot-4 stature.

TV REVIEW

An Early Turkey On Tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — Even though Thanksgiving isn't until tomorrow, ABC-TV is giving us a turkey anyway, tonight. They're calling it "Annie and the Hoods" and claiming it is a music and comedy show.

It stars Anne Bancroft, the gifted actress whose first TV variety special won an Emmy award four years ago. This one starts with some male dancers dancing. They are dressed like hoods.

But the hoods to which the show's title refers aren't mobsters. They are skits with such titles as Womanhood, the Other Womanhood, Likelihood, Bachelorhood, Adulthood and Motherhood.

Each skit features a famous male — Jack Benny, Gene Wilder, Tony Curtis, Alan Alda, David Merrick (he produced "The Great Gatsby"), Robert Merrill, Carl Reiner and Miss Bancroft's husband, Mel Brooks.

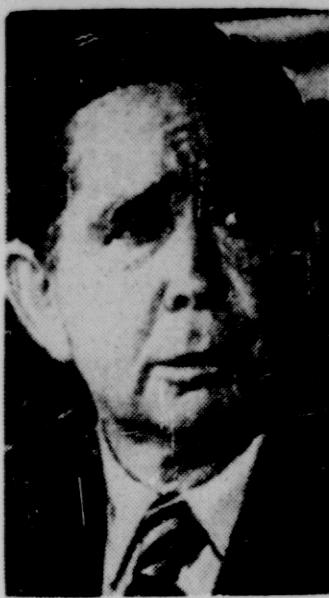

Most of the skits are the very sophisticated kind you used to see in Fun City's intimate boites. A boite is a joint where, if you pop a button, a waiter hurls a tablecloth on it and seats a party of six.

A good example of this humor is to be found in the show's opening Bachelorhood skit in which B. and Merrill arrive at his pad after a night on the town. She obviously appears ready to fool around.

He pours a snifter of brandy, puts a record on and slides over. She turns her head up, prepared to kiss. He starts singing "Strangers in the Night." She gets annoyed. A high note by Merrill shatters the snifter. Finally, the song ends. They kiss.

"Do you know 'Some Enchanted Evening'?" she breathes.

It is the sign post of the evening. The rest — save for a reading of an Odeon Nash poem with Alda and a song to a baby who keeps staring at the camera — will cause only snores or channel changes.

CARL ALBERT
No 'shadow of gloom'

"The chances of Jerry Ford, who's a terribly athletic man, of anything happening to him are very slim. So, I've got mathematics on my side."

But maybe, Albert thinks, he should never have been in this position. Maybe the Congress, in writing the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, should have provided for an election of a new vice president, rather than the appointment and confirmation of a presidential nominee. Meanwhile, Albert has waited, next in line, with the president pro tem of the Senate, James O. Eastland, D-Miss., right behind him.

"It might have been a good

11 Redwood High School Students Selected For Exchange Program

Eleven Redwood High School students have been selected to be exchange students next year under programs of the Redwood International Student Exchange (RISE).

Six will be abroad for a full year.

Chosen for a year's program with American Field Service, Southern Hemisphere, is junior Ellen Moore, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Moore of Kentfield. She is now waiting notification from national AFS headquarters of her country assignment. She would depart early next year.

Junior Melissa Martineich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martineich of Corte Madera, will go to South America for a year with the International Fellowship Inc. program.

Two sophomores, Gilbert Ashley, son of Beth Ashley of Greenbrae, and Blake Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis of Larkspur, will spend a year in Pretz, Germany as representatives of a private school-to-school exchange begun in the 1960s under auspices of the American Friends Service Committee.

Elizabeth Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Becker of Ross, will be Redwood's representative for a year in another school-to-school exchange, now in its third year, with a school in Freiburg, Germany.

Dana Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson of Belvedere, will attend school in Blandford, Dorset, England, for a year beginning in August. A Redwood teacher yet to be selected will also go to England for a year as part of the ongoing Blandford exchange.

Janet Abrahamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Abra-

Heiress Draws 9-Year Term For Hijacking

DUBLIN (UPI) — A 33-year-old English heiress today drew a nine-year prison term for her part in the hijacking of a helicopter to bomb a Northern Ireland police station last January.

The judge ordered Dr. Rose Dugdale's sentence to be concurrent with the nine-year term she is already serving for her part in last April's multimillion-dollar art robbery at the Wicklow home of diamond millionaire Sir Alfred Beit.

Two Northern Ireland men, Patrick Treacy, 20, and Eamon McNulty, were each sentenced to six years imprisonment along with Dr. Dugdale in the hijacking.

Sao Paulo's Rats Outnumber People

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — There are approximately four rats for each one of Sao Paulo's 8 million citizens, the city's Public Health Department said yesterday.

The department, which has begun a massive project to exterminate Sao Paulo's estimated 30 million rats, said they eat at least 20 per cent of all the food either produced or stored in the city.

thing when they enacted the 25th Amendment if they had thought to have an election after a reasonable length of time if you were a long way from an election," Albert said.

Should the odds fail him, Albert admits he has a few ideas about what he would do as president; as a Democrat inheriting a Republican administration; as a chief executive who, for the second time in a row, had not been elected to the position by the people.

"I have my own ideas but I would rather not speculate on that. I would rather not talk out loud about that because it might cause me and others some problems," he said.

Albert, a member of the freshman congressional class that included John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon, professes no desire to move to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

He was born in a miner's shack in McAlester, Okla., and was raised in the town of Bugtussle. He won a national oratorical contest in high school and used the prize money to attend the University of Oklahoma from which he was graduated. He also studied at Oxford University in England as a Rhodes scholar and the University of Madrid.

He and his wife Mary have two children: Mary Frances, 26, a Washington teacher, and David, 19, a student at Harvard College.

The 66-year-old Albert expects to retire in four years. Since he was 6 years old, he has had one overriding goal: to be Speaker of the House of Representatives.

He works at it 12 hours or more each day, seven days a week. His last vacation was more than one year ago, aide Joe S. Foote said.

Since Jan. 20, 1971, when Albert became the 46th speaker, he's kept to the same schedule.

He arrives at his Rayburn office, where he reviews matters pertaining to the Oklahoma district he has represented since January, 1947, shortly after 7 a.m. He reads his mail, opening some of it himself, and then, at about 9 a.m., heads for the Capitol building and the office he occupies as speaker. He spends the next three hours meeting with congressional leaders and other members, reporters, lobbyists and friends.

At noon, when the House session generally begins, he walks down the hall to the chamber, taking the seat he rarely leaves until the House adjourns for the day.

As speaker, Albert's salary is $62,500. He receives $10,000 annually to cover expenses.

Ford's Proclamation For Thanksgiving Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Text of President Ford's Thanksgiving Day proclamation, signed Monday, Nov. 11:

America and the world have changed enormously since the first Thanksgiving 353 years ago. From a tiny coastal enclave on an untamed continent, we have grown into the mightiest, freest nation in human history. A civilization whose farthest reach was once the earth's uncharted seas has now plumbed the secrets of outer space.

But the fundamental meaning of Thanksgiving still remains the same. It is a time when the differences of a diverse people are forgotten and all Americans join in giving thanks to God for the blessings we share — the blessings of freedom, opportunity and abundance that make America so unique.

This year, in the midst of plenty, we still face a serious problem and massive challenges. In giving thanks for the many things we hold dear, let us also pray for the courage, resourcefulness and sense of purpose we will need to continue America's saga of progress, and to be worthy heirs of the pilgrim spirit. May we, too, find the strength and vision to leave behind us a better world, and an example that will inspire future generations to new achievements.

Now, therefore, I, Gerald R. Ford, President of the United States of America, in accordance with Section 6103 of Title V of the United States Code, do hereby proclaim Thursday, Nov. 28, 1974, as a day of national thanksgiving.

I call upon all Americans to gather together in homes and places of worship on this day, to join in offering gratitude for the countless blessings our people enjoy, and to share with the elderly and the unfortunate this special day that brings us all closer together.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this 11th day of November, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-four and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred ninety-ninth.

Brown Is Moving Back Into Capitol West Wing

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov.-elect Edmund G. Brown Jr., who last year fled from the Capitol because of the "constant danger" of an earthquake, is moving back into the historic west wing of the gold-domed structure, it was learned yesterday.

Brown and his "transition team" will occupy the office used by former Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, who was forced from office by his perjury conviction and lost the GOP nomination for governor.

The transition office will be used until Brown's inauguration Jan. 6. Then he will move into the regular governor's office in the newer east wing which is built to withstand earthquakes.

Reinecke's old office, vacated as part of the legislature's general plan to evacuate the reportedly earthquake-prone Capitol, has been "just set up" for use by the governor-elect's staff, a General Services Administration employee said.

On April 12, 1973, Brown, as secretary of state, issued a news release proclaiming he was the first constitutional officer to vacate the old west wing, saying, "In view of the substantial earthquake risk, I will not require my employees to continue working in the old Capitol building."

"The building has great historical and aesthetic value and most of us working here are reluctant to leave," he said at the time.

However, he added, "the safety of my employees must be placed above all other considerations."

When asked recently whether he thought a new Capitol should be built to replace the old west wing, Brown said he wanted to take another look at engineering studies of the old Capitol to see whether "we can prop it up."

Death Sentence Given Man, 20

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 20-year-old man convicted of murdering a neighborhood grocer and his wife was sentenced to die in the gas chamber at San Quentin Prison.

Anthony B. Tannas showed no emotion yesterday as Superior Court Judge William Mullins pronounced the death penalty.

Tannas was convicted last month of strangling George Sheib, 44, and then strangling and cutting the throat of Sheib's wife, Ann, 36, in the couple's apartment. He then telephoned police and was quoted as saying: "I've just killed two people. Come and get me."

Tannas, who was a close friend of the couple, told police "something clicked" while visiting them.

Manfred Remembers Some Things Well

Manfred Moore, 49er rookie running back from University of Southern California, remembers two things well his first year in the NFL. One is good, the other bad.

He talked about both last night in answering questions from the 49er Goal Rushers of Marin at their little get together at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda. Despite the team's two straight shutouts, only 40 showed up for the meeting and half of them were youngsters.

Moore, at 6-foot-1 and 190 pounds is not considered big for a pro running back. He will be remembering for a long time his 88-yard touchdown runback of a punt in last Sunday's 27-0 win over Atlanta. That's good. He'll also remember a $100 fine from training camp. That's bad.

BEING LATE FOR a meal at the Santa Barbara training camp prior to the start of the season was the reason for the fine. It's automatic, said Moore, when a player is late to meals or team meetings.

"At training camp I was making $200 a week so I really felt that $100 — that was half my week's pay." He has not been stuck with a late fine since. "One fine is too many as far as I was concerned," he laughed.

That rule applies to all players, not just rookies, said Moore. If a player is late it's $100 and an additional $100 for every hour after.

MOORE IS NOT NEW to the Bay Area. He was born in Martinez and most of his relatives now live in Richmond. That's why, if you were looking close after he scored that touchdown, you saw him wave toward the end zone.

"I was waving to my grandparents," said Moore. "I got them the tickets to the game so I knew where they were sitting."

About that runback, the second longest punt return in 49er history, Manfred said that after he got that last block from Skip Vanderbundt he was really thinking touchdown. "I'm not noted for my speed so I headed for the flag (the end zone marker). I was wondering when someone was going to catch up with me." No one did and that runback put the 49ers ahead by three touchdowns and iced the game.

Moore was used primarily as a blocker for Anthony Davis at USC and that accounted for his being drafted by the 49ers as low as the ninth round. But in a career total of 103 carries at USC he averaged five yards a try. He has already shown 49er coaches and fans he can do more than block. He was picked in the 13th round by Hawaii of the World Football League but went with the 49ers "because they had the better offer."

WHEN ASKED ABOUT another 49er rookie, quarterback Tom Owen, Moore said, "I have all the confidence in the world in him. I think he will be one of the great quarterbacks in the team's history."

About Davis, his former teammate at USC, Moore said, "He is a tremendous athlete ... strong, quick. The only drawback is his height, 5-10. He will have to make a choice between baseball and football in the pros."

In comparing fans between his collegiate days at USC and the pro spectators at Candlestick, Moore said, "Well, both crowds bring in their own beverages and things like that. (Polite way of saying booze.) But I think the 49er fans are more demanding."

Four Marin Prep Teams Win Basketball Openers

San Rafael High School began its 1974-75 basketball season in dramatic fashion yesterday, defeating Washington of San Francisco, 62-60 on a layup by John Soares with three seconds to play.

It was one of four victories by Marin County Athletic League schools yesterday. In other non-league games, host Terra Linda breezed to an 84-53 triumph over St. Patrick of Vallejo; Drake whipped visiting Balboa High of San Francisco, 89-68, and Novato won a home game against Santa Rosa's Montgomery, 74-59.

The Bulldogs of San Rafael, defending champions of the MCAL, stalled for the final half minute before Soares, a 6-3 junior forward, drove the middle to score. The non-league game was played in San Rafael's gym to a half-capacity crowd.

Two points were all that separated the teams throughout the fourth quarter, following a third quarter tie at 48 and a halftime deadlock at 27. Veteran forward Mike Ellingson, who led all scorers with 18 points, got his last four on a pair of successive layups that put the Bulldogs up 60-58 with a minute to play.

Terra Linda senior guard Doug Carlisle, one of eight lettermen on the roster, pumped in 21 points, including eight in the first quarter when Terra Linda took a 22-8 lead. Most of the Trojan starters sat out the second and fourth quarters.

Trojan 6-foot-4 center Barry Carr was six for six from the floor in the first half and finished with 17 points. Carr, Jim Cronin and Jeff Brusati out-fought the smaller Bruins on the boards, winning the rebound battle, 42-37.

"I was very pleased, except with the defense," said Terra Linda coach Fred Arnold. "But it's hard to play good defense when you score 84 points."

Drake's Mike Ghiringhelli, a senior guard, scored 15 of his 22 points in the third quarter when the Pirates blew open the

Hot Warriors Put Everything Together

Barry Gets 37 In Rout Of Houston

Combined AP & UPI
OAKLAND (UPI) — Golden State Warriors star Rich Barry says his team has finally "put everything together."

Few would disagree, least of all the Houston Rockets, who were on the receiving end of a 144-124 dumping by the Warriors last night.

Against a defense-minded Houston club that has given up an average of only 98 points a game, the Warriors produced their highest score of the season and increased their lead in the Pacific Division to four games.

Barry scored 37 points, had eight assists and the Warriors made 62 per cent of their shots. The win gave the Warriors a 14-6 record.

"I've been saying all along

Sports

Wednesday, November 27, 1974 Independent-Journal, 25 that we've been overdue to put everything together some night," Barry said. "It's finally happened."

"We just laid down the blanket and had a little picnic," said Warriors guard Charles Johnson, who scored 21 points and grabbed 12 rebounds.

The Warriors sank an incredible 18 of 23 field goals, or 78.3 per cent, in the third period as they ran up a 27-point lead. Most Golden State starters in the final period were confined to the bench where they slapped hands, laughed and then leaped to their feet to give

Warriors Derrek Dickey scored a career high 20 points. Cliff Meely scored 21 for Houston.

The victory was the eighth straight for Golden State against Houston in Oakland where the Rockets have not won since February, 1971.

The Warriors, whose record is the second best in the entire NBA, will host their southern rivals, the Los Angeles Lakers, 7-10, on Saturday.

McBride Is Named N.L.'s Top Rookie

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bake McBride of the St. Louis Cardinals, a 25-year-old outfielder with Olympian speed who teamed with Lou Brock to establish an all-time single season stolen base tandem, today was named the Rookie of the Year in the National League by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

McBride, who batted .309 with six homers, 56 runs batted in and 30 stolen bases, received 16 first place votes in a balloting of 24 members of the BBWAA to easily outdistance outfielder Greg Gross of the Houston Astros. Gross was named on seven ballots while the other vote went to third baseman Bill Madlock of the Chicago Cubs.

In receiving top rookie honors, McBride is the first Cardinal to achieve the honor since Bill Virdon in 1955. He also is the first NL rookie winner to have a .300 batting average since Dick Allen of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1964.

McBride, who has not hit below .300 since signing with the Cardinals in 1970, is a former track star whose blazing speed provided the proper complement to the base stealing exploits of Brock, who established a major league record with 118 steals. The two players stole 148 bases between them, establishing a record for most stolen bases by two men. McBride is the only Cardinal player other than Brock to steal as many as 30 bases in a season since Frankie Frisch in 1927.

BAKE MCBRIDE

The Cardinal rookie also proved to be a smooth centerfielder, compiling a .990 fielding average. His ability to handle the centerfield spot from opening day afforded the Cardinals the opportunity of shifting Reggie Smith to rightfield, a move that proved instrumental in the club's second place finish in the NL East. Brock, McBride and Smith all hit over .300, marking the first time since 1902 that all three Cardinal outfielders reached that standard.

"I feel pretty happy, but I don't feel as happy as I could because Lou Brock didn't win the most valuable player award," said McBride on learning of his selection as rookie of the year. "I owe most of the honor to Brock, just because I played with him. Every game he would tell me something different about how to play. He used to talk to me as he walked out to the outfield, and he talked to me every day about stealing bases."

McBride said he had only three goals when he came to spring training last March, and he fulfilled two of them.

"The beginning of this past season I set as my goals hitting .300, being rookie of the year and winning the pennant. Next year I want to win the World Series," he said. The Cardinals barely missed out on winning the National League East this year, finishing second to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A native of Fulton, Mo., McBride is spending the winter months taking correspondence courses from Westminster College in his hometown where he is studying for a degree in psychology. McBride, a lean 6-foot-2, 190-pounder who has been timed in 20.9 for the 220-yard dash and starred in the sprints, the broad jump and the triple jump during high school and for two years at Westminster.

COACH AND PLAYER OF YEAR

Top Honors For Scott, Moroski

By DAVID EINHSTEIN

Al Scott and Mike Moroski, who combined to lead Novato High School to its first undefeated football season ever, have been named by the Independent-Journal as coach and player of the year in the Marin County Athletic League.

Scott, head coach at Novato since 1966, won in close voting over San Marin's John Treu. As a first year coach, Treu took the Mustangs to a 7-1-1 overall record and second place in the MCAL behind Novato. Moroski was selected over Novato wide receiver Steve Hoog, who led the league in receiving and scoring, and San Marin half-back Wayne Roche, the league's leading rusher.

On the strength of Scott's defensive genius and Moroski's equally inspired passing, Novato rolled to an 8-0-2 overall record and its second straight MCAL championship in 1974. Scott also coached the Hornets to titles in 1968 and 1971.

"To tell the truth, these players went beyond my wildest dreams," says Scott. "I really didn't expect an undefeated season. As far as I'm concerned, they're all players of the year. Every one."

To crown the season, Moroski passed for three touchdowns and the defense held like epoxy as Novato crushed Hogan of Vallejo, 27-0 last Friday night in the third annual Top of the Bay Bowl. That was the Hornets' sixth shutout of 1974, and the 11th in their last 16 games. At one point they had eight straight in league play.

Not bad for a defense that returned just two starters from last year. "We graduated 32 kids off that championship team," says Scott. "Yet I think that the boys who played defense this season accepted the challenge to continue what we did last year. They had a great deal of pride, and they wanted to keep the tradition going."

Before the season started, Scott said, "Last year I just sat back and had a good time. This year I'm going to have to do a lot of coaching." He did, and by season's end he had groomed cornerback Steve Hoog, end Fred Conte and linebacker Rick Holshevnkoff into all-leaguers.

The rise of Novato to predominance in the MCAL was paralleled by the emergence of Moroski as one of the top quarterbacks in Northern California. The Hornets were 2-3 when Mike took over as a junior. Since then they have won 13, tied two and lost just once, to Petaluma in last year's Bay Bowl.

Moroski's statistics this season were staggering. According to Novato figures, he threw for 1,524 yards and 13 touchdowns in seven and one quarter regular season games. Even more impressive was his 58 per cent completion rate as he hit on 98 of 170 attempts.

The 6-3, 175-pound son of San Marin's principal is being hailed as one of the best quarterbacks in the history of the league. And some of the most vocal praise has come from opposing coaches.

"He's just tremendous," said San Marin's Treu. "Even when we did play good defense against him, he still completed the pass."

"You're not going to stop him," said Don Lucas of Terra Linda. "He's one of the best passers we've ever had in the league."

Scott concurs. "He rewrote the record book. I guess you'd have to say that he's the finest quarterback to come out of Novato."

Which is a tremendous compliment, because the Hornets have had some tremendous quarterbacks. There was Mike's older brother Marty, and John Dollinske, who quarterbacked the '65 championship team. There was Russ Dillon, who called signals for the '68 champs, and Harold Fain, who quarterbacked in '66.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Weighing Facts About Anchors

A lot of boaters still like to use old salty expressions and if you're a purist at the nautical jargon, you'll recognize the difference between being "anchored" and being "moored at anchor."

The difference is pretty subtle, but this is it: You're "anchored" if you merely use an anchor, or two anchors, at the bow, or stern, so that a boat is able to swing through a full circle — 360 degrees. But the original meaning of being "moored at anchor" indicated that two anchors were being used, one at the bow the other at the stern, so that the craft couldn't swing, but kept the same heading.

Being anchored means that a craft is prevented from drifting, but being moored at anchor means that a craft's position is fixed.

It's being a little too precise to use such expressions these days, because it's likely that nobody would know what you meant. But many boaters like the old jargon, and I've heard anglers who have never seen the sea, boating on an inland lake that never existed before the Corps of Engineers built a dam, refer to "port" and "starboard" rather than left and right.

Mooring, or tying up a boat, either power or sail, is done by MOORING LINES. The lines are MADE FAST to CLEATS or BITTS. Large ships tie up to BOLLARDS, which are just larger versions of bitts.

There's much more to securing a boat or handling one in mooring procedures than merely knowing some of the terminology, as many of the questions we've been asked this past summer indicate.

Q. I'm told that synthetic ropes such as nylon are best for anchoring. Is this so?

A. Very much so. Nylon is unquestionably the best because of its elasticity. It has springiness not found in natural fiber ropes such as manila, hemp or sisal, or in other synthetics such as dacron or polyethylene. These elastic qualities, however, aren't desirable where the rope must not stretch as in such applications as sheets and halliards on sailing craft.

Q. My boat broke away from its mooring and almost hit a million-dollar luxury craft. The rope broke under the strain. Would I have been to blame if damage had resulted?

A. Every precedent in admiralty law says that the owner is responsible for the damage his boat does. If the rope broke, it's your fault. You should have had a tauter mooring line.

Q. What's a fairlead?

A. It's a hole or conduit for a chain or rope on a boat. In pleasure boating we generally call them chocks.

Q. Is it compulsory to carry an anchor on inland waters?

A. This is a matter of state law. More and more states are legislating amendments to their boating laws requiring pleasure craft (usually those over 26 feet) to carry an anchor and 50 feet of anchor line or chain. Check your state boating law.

Sad Seals Vs. Bruins Tonight

OAKLAND (AP) — The California Golden Seals, embarrassed by more than their National Hockey League record, are home after another winless road trip to play the Boston Bruins tonight.

The Seals' radio announcer told his audience last Saturday night from Minnesota that the team had fired Coach Marshall Johnston and traded away scoring leader Joey Johnston. Tonight, he'll have to explain that he was the victim of a hoax telephone call.

This will be the Bruins' first Oakland Coliseum appearance since a 6-2 loss here last March 10. The teams have met two times in Boston already this season, with Boston winning by scores of 5-0 and 4-2.

California currently is on a 13-game winless streak, with two ties and 11 losses on the record since a 4-1 upset of the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers here Oct. 25.

Washington Coach Owens Quits After 18 Seasons

Combined AP and UPI
SEATTLE — Jim Owens, an early hero when he guided Washington to three Rose Bowls but the recent focus of criticism, quit last night "for personal reasons" after 18 years as the university's head football coach.

"I realize that I want to do something else in my active life other than coaching football," said the former Oklahoma star tight end who compiled a 99-82-6 record at Washington.

Owens, who survived a black player revolt in 1969 and withstood increasing complaints about his coaching abilities, said no group or individual forced his decision to resign.

NEW YORK — Louisiana Tech was selected yesterday by the United Press International board of coaches as the 1974 small college football national champion.

ST. LOUIS — Muddled Marvin Barnes, who isn't sure he likes his $2.1 million contract with the Spirits of St. Louis, had more problems yesterday when his $35,000 Rolls Royce wouldn't start.

That's the excuse the 6-foot-9 center gave after showing up two hours late for a session to iron out his problems with the Spirits' management.

Barnes, who walked out on his ABA team a week ago before a game with the New York Nets, huddled for 45 minutes with Spirits coach Bob Mackinnon and President Harry Weltman and the two had one question — does Barnes think his contract is valid?

The two-time All-American from Providence didn't commit himself, he told the executives he hasn't decided yet.

PHILADELPHIA — Pat Williams, General Manager of the NBA Philadelphia 76ers said yesterday the 76ers had "reached an understanding" with the ABA Spirits of St. Louis on the rights to forward Billy Cunningham.

Williams said the two clubs would report to the New York

State supreme court on Dec. 2 on their efforts to reach an out-of-court settlement. The court suspended Cunningham's trial last Thursday and ordered the two teams to seek a settlement.

Williams refused to confirm published reports that the 76ers have agreed to pay the spirits $200,000 and the ABA club has agreed to drop all court action.

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Giants will play their 1975 opening home game April 11 against the Atlanta Braves.

The Giants, in announcing their 81-game home schedule yesterday, said starting times have been moved back by popular demand. Single day games will start at 1:05 p.m., night games at 8:05 p.m. and Sunday doubleheaders at 12:05 p.m.

NEW YORK — Pitcher Jim (Catfish) Hunter and his boss, Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley, faced each other behind closed doors on the ninth floor of the American Arbitration Association building.

They began arbitration talks stemming from Hunter's charges that Finley didn't pay him as much as was called for in his contract and therefore Hunter wanted to be declared a free agent.

A three-man arbitration panel will make a final ruling sometime next month.

PRO BASKETBALL

Rejuvenated Kings Edge Bulls, 93-90

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

One year ago, the Kansas City-Omaha Kings were a team beset by problems. Nate Archibald was struggling with an injured Achilles tendon, Bob Cousy had just resigned as coach, the team was in the middle of an eight-game losing streak and morale and attendance were equally low.

But look at the Kings now! Archibald is back, as healthy and quick as ever, Johnson has his players working like a team and, surprise of surprises, Kansas City-Omaha is leading the Midwest, a half-game ahead of Detroit, a full-game over Chicago and six ahead of Milwaukee. The Midwest has been turned upside down.

"We're playing together," said Johnson after a 93-90 triumph over Chicago Tuesday night. "This team has been developing and it's getting better because it's playing as a team."

Knicks 99 Pistons 88

Bob Lanier scored 36 points and the Pistons survived a four-minute scoring famine at the start of the final period to defeat the Knicks. The victory was Detroit's first in New York since Oct. 12, 1971.

Lakers 105 Bucks 102

Los Angeles' Zelmo Beaty pulled down a big rebound after a desperation shot as the 24 second clock was expiring with the Lakers leading by one point and 21 seconds left in the game. Pat Riley sank two free throws seven seconds to clinch. Jabbar scored 36 points for the Bucks.

Hawks 119 Bullets 102

Led by Tom Van Arsdale's season-high 33 points, Atlanta broke a three-game losing streak by beating Washington. The score was tied or changed hands 33 times in the first half. Aiding Van Arsdale was Tom Henderson, with a career high of 27 points.

Cavs 102 SuperSonics 94

Austin Carr topped Cleveland with 24 points and Jim Clemons added 19 to beat Seattle. Carr, who hit on only 2-of-6 shots in the first half, scored 14 third-quarter points and Cleveland won 102-94.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Tax problems will take a back seat to football tonight as the financially troubled Birmingham Americans play the Hawaiians with the winner nailing down a spot in the World Football League's first World Bowl.

Federal, state and local tax officials say they will delay their claims against the Americans so the players can be paid and the game can take place.

Paydays for the Americans themselves have not always come on schedule this season, but Coach Jack Gotta says the players are taking the team's money problems in stride.

Suns 120 Jazz 110

The Suns, led by Charlie Scott's 31 points, hit their season high in handing New Orleans its 19th loss in 21 starts. Dick Van Arsdale added 17 for Phoenix. Pete Maravich had 21 and seven assists for the Jazz.

Braves 103 76ers 99

Bob McAdoo equaled Billy Cunningham's five-year old Philadelphia Spectrum scoring record for a regular season game with 46 points but the Braves needed two free throws each by Gar Heard and Bob Weiss to edge the 76ers.

Colonels 128 Sounds 106
Sparked by Artis Gilmore's 23 points and 21 rebounds, Kentucky stretched its perfect home-court record in the ABA this season to 12 victories. Louie Dampier fired in 20 points and Dan Issel added 16 with 13 rebounds for Kentucky.

Nuggets 134 Spirits 124

Mike Green scored a career high of 30 points in regulation time and Mack Calvin and Ralph Simpson led the surging Nuggets in overtime to give Denver a victory over the Spirits, still playing without Marvin Barnes.

'HUTCH AWARD'

Baseball Honors Danny Thompson

NEW YORK (UPI) — Danny Thompson, a man who has "learned to live" with the knowledge that he has a form of leukemia, is the winner of baseball's 1974 "Hutch Award."

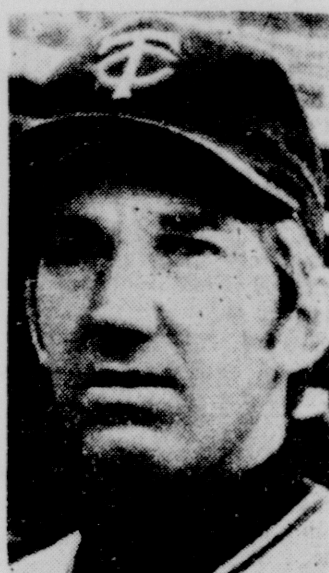

The 26-year old shortstop of the Minnesota Twins, who was informed in February, 1973, that he was suffering with granulocytic leukemia, was honored by major league baseball writers and broadcasters who initiated the award in memory of Fred Hutchinson, former pitcher and manager who died of cancer in 1964 when he was manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

The announcement was made by Ritter Collett, sports editor of the Dayton, Ohio, Journal Herald, secretary-treasurer of the sponsoring group.

"It was tough at first," said Thompson via telephone from Cherokee, Okla., where he is wintering on a farm with his wife's family. "But I've learned to live with it."

"You see," he said, "I really wouldn't know I had it if they hadn't told me. The doctors keep a close watch on it ... I have a checkup about every month ... I think this year I kinda licked it ... It was tough to live with for a while ... but I think I've got it licked and am looking forward to next season and hope to play over a normal span of years."

"In fact," Thompson added, "I think I had my best season all-around in 1974 — I mean offensively and defensively. I had the impression the Twins didn't think I could play any more when I reported to spring training but we were losing ... young players who were brought up didn't solve the problem ... and I got my chance to play in June ... after that things seemed to get better." Thompson, who batted .250 in 97 games last season, talks about his ailment like it was a stomach ache — partly because he qualifies as the original "hard luck kid" of baseball.

As recently as 1969, a doctor walked out of the intensive ward of a hospital in Columbus, Ga., and told a nurse, "there is a baseball player who never will play baseball again."

Then a shortstop for Charlotte in the Southern League, Thompson went back for a pop fly and dived headlong for the ball.

"My head crashed straight-on into the left-fielder's knee," Thompson recalled. "The collision broke bones in my cheek and jaw. Then, when he fell on me, he broke my leg in one place and my ankle in three places. I was in intensive care for a week and in the hospital for three months. The doctors told me I would never play again."

Connolly Seeks Post In Fairfax

Walter A. Connolly, a designer with offices in San Anselmo, is seeking appointment to a seat on the Fairfax Planning Commission vacated by the death of John Grybel.

Seven applicants are seeking the post. The town council will fill the vacancy at 8 p.m. Dec. 9 at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Connolly, an eight-year resident of Fairfax, said a major problem facing city leaders is local traffic congestion, and proposed a number of solutions to the problem.

Connolly said he supports widening Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to four lanes from the Red Hill shopping center through Fairfax, and said he supports the controversial White's Hill connector that would link the town with Terra Linda.

He also proposed converting the Fairfax Parkade into a multilevel parking complex, perhaps underground with a park setting above. He said city officials should look into making Central Boulevard one-way during peak commute hours.

Connolly said he is seeking the post to "get involved with the community and put my ideas to work."

He said he supports the city sign ordinance, and said he supports additional development of single-family units in Fairfax as long as local services can handle the growth.

Max Friedman's Marin Town and Country Club parcel should be converted into a countywide recreational area, said Connolly.

He said he backs the political philosophy of Mayor Frank J. Egger.

Connolly, a native of Hollywood, holds a degree in architecture from the California Polytechnic Institute at San Luis Obispo. He lives at 72 Maple Avenue with his wife, Patricia.

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 27, the 331st day of 1974 with 34 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

American historian Charles Beard was born Nov. 27, 1874.

On this day in history:

In 1901, the War Department authorized creation of the Army War College to instruct commissioned officers.

In 1945, President Harry Truman named Gen. George Marshall special representative to China.

In 1956, President Dwight D. Eisenhower denied that differences over the Suez Canal had weakened American-British-French NATO accord.

In 1962, all 97 persons aboard a jetliner bound for the United States were killed when it crashed in Peru.

A thought for the day: British author Rudyard Kipling said, "The silliest woman can manage a clever man, but it needs a very clever woman to manage a fool."

'Tis the season to mail early.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Defy Your Friends To Make Four Spades Out Of This Hand

The odds are very high that you'll never have to play a bridge hand like the one shown today. You can have some fun with the hand if you clip it out and defy your friends to make four spades.

First Trick

"I win the first trick with the ace of diamonds," says your friend. You congratulate him.

"Then I lead a small heart," he continues.

You point out that East will win as cheaply as possible and will return the three of trumps.

West will win the next heart trick and draw dummy's other trump.

The defenders must get one trump and three hearts.

After winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds, lead to dummy's ace of clubs and return dummy's low heart.

East can't afford to step up with the ace since that would permit you to set up a heart trick by force. When East plays low, you put up the jack to force out the king.

West cannot afford to return a trump, so you can eventually ruff a heart in dummy. Just ruff a diamond or club return, give up a heart, take the ace of trumps and ruff a heart. Very neat.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Wide Variance Seen In Ratio Of Payouts

By DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. Is there any yardstick for corporate earnings and the amount paid as dividends? There is such a wide divergence in dividends paid that I suppose shareholders are at the mercy of corporate directors. — M.F.

A. Not entirely, since individuals do have a choice of investment vehicles. Those investing solely for income should choose stocks with a high yield, whereas those looking for appreciation should evaluate other factors. Although it is the responsibility of the directors to determine a corporation's dividend policy, these decisions are generally based on historic payout rates, current earnings, projected earnings, economic factors and corporate cash requirements. Furthermore, reported earnings are not always what they seem, often including such variables as: inventory profits (if FIFO accounting is used), changing tax rates, variation in amortization and depreciation, deferral of research expenses, etc.

According to figures developed by Argus Research, corporations are paying out only 38 per cent of after-tax profits in dividends, the lowest rate since the Korean war. However, if inventory profits are removed from the earnings base, the figure soars to 58 per cent, well above the postwar average. My own figures show that in 1973 corporations distributed 15 per cent less of their profits in cash dividends than in 1972.

Payout rates vary widely from one industry to another, from a high for the utilities of 68 per cent to a low of 16 per cent for the electronics industry.

However, dividends grew at a faster pace in the latter industry, increasing 81 per cent in six years versus only a 24 per cent rise in utility dividends. Thus, the investor has still another factor to evaluate — should he choose a low-yield issue in a growing industry in order to participate in that growth through increasing dividends or should he opt for a high-yield stock in a retrograde group? His decision will probably reflect whether the need for high current income is paramount or whether he has sufficient time prior to retirement to build income through gradual liberalization of dividends.

Over the long term, the total return generally outpaces that from the high-yield-type issue.

Silver Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at $4.54 cents per fine ounce, up 15.5 cents. Engelhard quoted silver bullion at $4.54, up 15.5 cents and fabricated silver at $4.659 up 15.9 cents.

POPULAR PORSCHE

The 914 roadster, the most popular of the Porsches, sports new recoverable bumpers and tartan-cloth interiors for 1975. Available in 1.8 and 2 liter engines, it features a mid-engine design and a removable targa-like top that stows in the rear trunk. The Porsche 914 delivers 20 to 21 miles per gallon in city driving and 30 to 33 mpg on the highways. Marin dealer is Felton Porsche-Audi in Mill Valley.

Housing Costs Expected To Bite Deeper

LOS ANGELES — American consumers will have to allocate much more of their disposable income to housing if present standards are to be maintained, according to Robert R. Dockson, president and chief executive officer of California Federal Savings and Loan Association.

At the same time, mortgage lenders will have to lower their standards to make mortgage money available to consumers in lower income brackets, said Dockson.

"The traditional concepts of 25 per cent of income allocated to housing will have to go out the window," he declared. "The four-to-one standard will have to drop, perhaps to three and one-half-to-one or three-to-one."

Bank Dividend

The board of directors of the Exchange Bank of Santa Rosa declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share payable Dec. 12, 1974, to stockholders of record as of Nov. 29.

Active Stock Mart Shows Early Gains

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market moved higher today in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange in reaction to coal news, but a government report took some of the steam out of the rally.

Advances led declines, 730 to 344, among the 1,528 issues crossing the tape.

Early gains were made on news the United Mine Workers Bargaining Council, in a split vote, approved a tentative new contract, which rank and file members now must ratify. There was uncertainty how the members, in their second week of a nationwide strike, would vote.

Getty Oil rose 3 1/2, Halliburton 2 1/2, Schlumberger, Natoms, Kerr-McGee, McDermott, Indiana Standard and Hughes Tool a point or more each. Some analysts have recommended buying oil-service companies because of exploration work being demanded.

Among the glamors, IBM and Merck gained 2, and Burroughs, Texas Instruments, Hewlett-Packard, Corning Glass and Johnson & Johnson a point or more each.

Chrysler was the most active issue, off 5/8 to 7 1/2 on 139,800 shares.

Stribley's Postpones Christmas Opening For San Rafael

Stribley's China & Gifts, located at Northgate Mall in Terra Linda, will not be able to open its second outlet in downtown San Rafael in time for Christmas but plans to do so early next year.

Owner A. R. Stribley said he could not get enough supplies in time to stock both his Northgate shop and the downtown store at 1233 Fourth Street (formerly Eng's Center).

Stribley announced he will definitely open his Fourth Street shop next year and is even considering consolidating his two stores in one location on Fourth Street because of rising rentals. This decision depends on the outcome of lease negotiations with owners of Northgate Mall.

MODERN EVE, which also has shops in both Northgate Mall and in downtown San Rafael, is considering consolidation as a possibility. Owner Helen Gray said she has toyed with the idea of consolidating and even selling, but nothing is definite. Mrs. Gray has operated the downtown Modern Eve for 32 years and the Northgate store for 10 years.

LIA SCHOENBECK of Terra Linda has been appointed office manager at Metropolitan Life's San Rafael office at 670 Las Gallinas Avenue. She previously served as office manager of the company's Santa Rosa office and assistant office manager in San Rafael.

Robert F. Minor, district sales manager, said Mrs. Schoenbeck will be in charge of the clerical force in the Marin County office as well as in the detached office in Santa Rosa. She has been with Metropolitan Life since 1957.

Sales reached $12,109,735 and net earnings were $420,899, reflecting gains of 26 per cent and 12 per cent, respectively, over the sales of $9,619,146 and earnings of $375,595 for the like period last year. Earnings per share were 13 cents compared to 12 cents in the corresponding period last year.

Sales for the nine months ended Oct. 31 amounted to $32,801,663 compared with $27,474,923 last year. Net earnings amounted to $1,378,819 or 43 cents per share compared with $1,256,954 or 39 cents in the corresponding nine-month period last year.
